

Gift for Grandson

No one welcomed Canada's Ambassador to Japan more warmly than nine-year-old Robin, when his paternal grandfather, Hon. R. W. Mayhew, came home from Tokyo with a miniature speedboat in his bag. Mr. Mayhew will holiday here with Mrs. Mayhew at their 3515 Beach Drive home. Robin was glad to see his grandfather; but couldn't take his eyes off his gift. (Times Photo.)

MAYHEW GIVES WARNING

Demagogue Tongues Could Shatter Peace

By GORDON FORBES
Political conferences on the future of South Korea will have a better chance for success "if some people who are accused of saying a lot of quiet," Robert W. Mayhew, Canada's ambassador to Japan, said today on his return to Victoria.
"I see real hope in the future, but this is not the day to listen to the demagogues," said Mr. Mayhew, who a week ago today was at the Korean front with Canadian troops.
He considered the next 30 days the crucial period in the post-Korean war period.
The political conferences must be allowed to work unhindered by unnecessary statements from cynics who don't know what they're talking about, he said.
He was referring to those persons who look upon the truce only as a move by the Reds to gain time for more aggression elsewhere.
The ambassador said the whole prestige of the United Nations in Asia will rest on what is done to rehabilitate war-torn Korea.
He had some suggestions of his own on what should be done.
He felt UN armies should be used immediately on emergency rehabilitation projects, mostly those of a temporary nature.
In order to get the country's economy on its feet again, plans for permanent restoration should be pressed as quickly as possible—rebuilding of roads, bridges, public buildings, dykes, etc.
Also, there should be a long range plan similar to the highly successful Colombo plan. The UN should send experts to the damaged country to see what is needed the most and determine how much aid is required.
STRESS ON ACTION
He stressed the need for quick action so that the people of Asia can see what the UN can do.
Mr. Mayhew saw real hope in the situation "if the UN acts quickly."
The ambassador said it would be foolish for the armies to withdraw from the country at this stage. Such action, he said, might hamper the success of the important political conferences on which so much depends.
Mr. Mayhew is home for a month-long visit. He and Mrs. Mayhew will return to Japan about September 1. He will report to Ottawa about August 15.
The ambassador, dealing with Japan's economy, said the country has done a magnificent job in reviving her industries and foreign trade.
"But there is much to be done yet before she has reached the position she wants," he said.
Mr. Mayhew felt there are still difficult times ahead for Japan, and noted regretfully that her exports decreased in the last six months.
"That decline was mostly in the sterling areas. A slight increase was recorded in the dollar area," he said.
The bright spot in Japan's trading has been with Canada.
The truce in Korea, Mr. Mayhew believes, will not harm Japan's economy as fast as some Japanese think. The rehabilitation of South Korea, he pointed out, will mean new business for Japan for some time.

U.S. Leaders Attend Taft Memorial Rites

WASHINGTON (UP)—The nation's great and mighty gathered for a final tribute to Sen. Robert Taft today in the majestic rotunda of the capitol.
President Eisenhower, members of the cabinet and supreme court, senators and representatives of both parties, diplomats from every part of the world, and grieving friends such as Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Gov. J. Lausche of Ohio were among the 900 invited dignitaries.
The memorial service, held at noon, was the highest honor the republic can pay its dead. It came after Taft's body had lain in state for nearly 24 hours in the huge circular hall beneath the capitol dome.
Sunday 40,000 plain citizens braved 90-degree heat to climb the capitol's tall front steps and file in awed silence past the closed bronze casket.
Last rites will be held at 11 a.m. Tuesday at the Indian Hill Episcopal Church in Taft's home town of Cincinnati. Burial will follow in the church cemetery, near Taft's home.

YEGGS GET $15,000 FROM MAINLAND HOTEL

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—Safe-crackers escaped with $15,000 early today from the Woods Hotel in nearby Maillardville.
Police said the thieves used an overcharge of explosives which almost wrecked the interior of the hotel.
"It was a wonder they didn't kill themselves," said a police investigator.

PW Exchange Starts Tuesday

99,763 Prisoners Look for Release as Plans Completed

MUNSAN (AP)—"Operation Big Switch," the exchange of some 87,000 Allied and Communist prisoners of the Korean war, is expected to start at 9 a.m. Wednesday (5 p.m. Tuesday, PDT), when the first PWs arrive at the Panmunjom exchange point.

The Reds said they will deliver 12,763 Allied captives in groups of 100 an hour for four hours daily. At the same time, the UN command plans to hand back 74,000 North Korean and Chinese prisoners at the daily rate of 2,400 able bodied and 360 sick and wounded.

As the Allied PWs file through "Freedom Gate" at Panmunjom they will be whisked by truck, or, if they are sick or wounded, by helicopter to one of three camps near Munsan, 15 miles to the south.

South Korean PWs will go to "Liberty Village," a city of tents; British Commonwealth prisoners to "Camp Britannica," and American and other UN liberated POWs to "Freedom Village," a long building operated by the U.S. Marines.

LONDON (UP)—British officials said today that United States Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has calmed British fears of an impatient American "walkout" at the Korean political conference.

They welcomed Dulles' assurances that the United States will consult its Allies before adopting a final "line" on Korea.
The American secretary of state was the target of bitter political and press attacks in Britain and West Europe last week because of an implied threat to walk out of the conference unless it proceeded in accordance with American desires.

The British press, loudly hostile to Dulles' statement about a possible walk-out last week, gave prominent attention today to his statement, made before leaving for Korea, that America would fully consult her Allies.

Trainmen Will Demand Protection From Douks

CPR Workers Blame Bennett, Bonner for Not Keeping Promises; Meeting Slated Tonight

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Trainmen on the Canadian Pacific Railway's twisting Kettle Valley line will meet here tonight to discuss protection from Doukhobor track bombings and fires.

"We mean business," said W. H. Towhey, chairman of the Nelson local of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

"We'll take the bull by the horns," he added.
"Anything can happen here with the Sons about. The CPR has given us every protection it can, but Attorney-General Bonner and Premier Bennett have fallen down on their election promises."

The demand for protection came from the trainmen after 10 homes in the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor settlement of Krestova were burned in early morning fires Friday.

The Krestova fires were followed by a blaze, believed to be of incendiary origin, which damaged a wooden railway trestle near Oliver, B.C., Sunday. Speculation is that the blaze may have been work of fanatical sons. Bottles, believed to have contained an inflammable liquid, are reported to have been found beneath the trestle.

Towhey said the railway brotherhood would not take strike action.

"There are other ways and means within our contract," he said. "Remember, we tied up the line for two days once before because of the attacks."

Premier Bennett said at his Kelowna home that he would leave the matter of protection in the Kootenays "to Attorney-General Bonner and the police."
Hundreds of Doukhobors—both Sons of Freedom and Orthodox—marked the death of their leader, Peter The Lordly Verigin, in a day-long religious celebration Sunday.

They chanted and prayed at Verigin's tomb at Brilliant, B.C., 20 miles southwest of here. There were no incidents after fears that the celebrations might ignite a new wave of violence.

FLASHES TOY GUN

Vancouver Boy Bandit Captured

VANCOUVER (CP)—A young bandit was captured here today after he made an unsuccessful attempt to hold up the main branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada on Granville Street. He was not immediately identified.

He entered a side door of the bank and flashed a toy gun before Mrs. Barbara Woods, a teller.

"He stuck a gun over the counter," said 30-year-old Mrs. Woods. "I screamed and dropped behind the counter. Then I don't remember what happened."

The bandit fled, pursued by three bank employees who captured him after a chase through noon-hour crowds.

Within three minutes, they had him back in the bank as police investigators arrived.

"It was a good imitation of a real gun," said assistant manager C. B. Sinclair.

Most of the employees and customers in the bank were not aware of the holdup until Mrs. Woods screamed.

REDS RE-ISSUE U.S. FOOD GIFTS

Communist Authorities Use Eisenhower Parcels for Own 'Relief Program'

BERLIN (CP)—Communist East Berlin authorities today started their own "food relief program" for West Berliners, using food parcels confiscated from East Germans who got them in the West zone.

Communist propaganda rockets zoomed into the western sectors, carrying leaflets telling of the project, which also was heralded by the Communist press and radio.

Two tents were set up 100 yards from the border, with piles of canned goods clearly showing their American and West German origin.

The Communists said the food had been "voluntarily given up" for distribution among West Berlin's unemployed and pensioners.

The parcels are believed to have been either confiscated at the border or left at East German railroad stations by persons brow-beaten by Communist strong-arm groups.

By noon about 800 West Berliners had answered the call of the rockets, band music and propaganda speeches and accepted some of the food. Hundreds of others watched the process from just inside the western sectors.

Thousands of hungry East Germans swarmed across the border to pick up their parcels at the West's 15 distribution centres despite continued Communist terror and confiscation.

But the number of parcels handed out dropped sharply, only about 20,000 parcels had been handed out by noon.

Piccioni Attempts To Organize New Italian Cabinet

ROME (UP)—Attilio Piccioni, a schoolmaster's son, began today an attempt to build a new Italian government from the wreckage of the fallen administration of ex-Premier Alcide De Gasperi.

Piccioni, 61, a Christian Democrat party organizer virtually unknown outside of Italy, is looked upon as a conservative and was vice-premier in De Gasperi's short-lived eighth cabinet.

Piccioni was expected to win back the support of groups which deserted De Gasperi in the confidence vote last Tuesday.

Piccioni's acceptance of Einaudi's invitation temporarily blocked the move of left-wing groups to push forward.

Mob of 400 Broken Up By Tear Gas; Leaders Held

A three-way conference was under way at Prince Rupert today to map out ways to end riots which Saturday forced police to resort to tear gas and arrest between 15 and 20 of more than 400 rioters.

Mayor Harry Whalen said an immediate meeting has been convened with the RCMP, the Department of Indian Affairs and the city council.

Whalen called the meeting after more than 400 Indians and whites—youth and old—stormed down the main street, besieged the city hall and police station, and described the mounties as "gestapo."

Assistant Commissioner Rivett-Carnac of the RCMP here plans to fly to Prince Rupert as soon as possible to discuss the situation.

Inspector R. Bordeleau described the paraders as "drunken trouble-makers" who invited the police to "come out and fight."

(The inspector said there were only 15 constables on hand to meet the paraders. They dispersed the mob after a gas gun succeeded where tear gas bombs failed.)

The demonstrations started when the beer parlors closed and the mob decried the RCMP as "gestapo" in what appeared a protest against efforts to tighten up on the city's night life.

Prince Rupert's 10,000 population is swelled by several thousand each week-end when fishermen, woodworkers and miners invade the city for a "bust up."

Bordeleau said the police came right out when the mob issued its threat. He said there were more than 400 in the demonstration.

The angry, milling throng paraded down the main street after the beer parlors closed at 11:30 p.m. They chanted, "Let's get the cops." Then the group, including women, headed for the city hall and police station where the three-hour demonstration ended.

week-end, however, damage was caused when the demonstrators threw egg-sized rocks through the city hall and police station windows.

Mayor Whalen leaned out of a second-story city hall window and asked the crowd to disperse and go home quietly. He was greeted by a barrage of stones.

The police marched into the street and tossed tear gas bombs at the crowd. They refused to budge. A newly-arrived gas gun was then turned on the mob and its members dispersed with stinging, tear-filled eyes.

A week ago, about 60 persons were arrested when revelers clashed with police. This

Sit in Beer Parlors All Night
Mayor Whalen said the riot, following a similar outbreak the previous Saturday, had been "building up ever since Indians were given permission to enter beer parlors." The Indian Act was revised a year ago to allow Indians to consume beer in licensed premises.

The RCMP inspector said it was "just one of those things. They sit in the beer parlor all night and at 11:30 they close and the gang wants to let off steam."

Indian Leader Defends People
VANCOUVER (CP)—Chief Andy Paul, president of the North American Indian Brotherhood, today criticized people who blamed Indians and the Indian act revision letting them use beer parlors for the riots at Prince Rupert.

"Every time something happens, these people blame the new act," he said. "This is as foolish as blaming the Doukhobor troubles on the Indian act. White people were in the majority in the disturbances, he said."

Quebec Youth Held For Gaspé Slaying
NEW RICHMOND, Que. (BUP)—Tracy Boudreau, 19, was scheduled to be arraigned today for the $30 slaying of storekeeper Edgar Audet who was bludgeoned to death in the Gaspé Peninsula two weeks ago while police searched for the killers of three Pennsylvania hunters.

Quebec Solicitor-General Antoine Rivard said Boudreau was picked up near New Richmond.

Rivard declined to elaborate on the arrest or say what prompted it other than that provincial police had been working around the clock on the case since Audet was slain July 23.

Princess May Wear New Short Skirt
The following dispatch is the first to be written by Margaret Saville in her new capacity as Buckingham Palace correspondent for the United Press. She is regarded as Britain's best-informed court writer. In her long experience she has written 30 books on the Royal Family, including "Elizabeth and Edward," "The Queen Mother" and "The Royal Heritage."

By MARGARET SAVILLE
LONDON (UP)—Princess Margaret was carefully considering today the new "shocking short" skirt length decreed by Paris designer Christian Dior.

A decision by the princess to wear the hemline undoubtedly could transform the controversy over the skirt length into a trend that would affect the world of fashion.

But the princess, who insists on being in the forefront of elegance, also is careful in her taste. She is keenly interested in Dior's new dictum that skirts should be raised to an average of 16 inches above the ground. But she has been cautiously reading all the reports of the Dior showing and studying photographs of the new autumn models at Sandringham House in Norfolk where she spent the long holiday week-end.

If she decides the shorter skirt is indeed the latest fashion, she certainly will want to wear it. She was the first woman of the Royal family to appear in public in the longer skirt after Dior introduced the "new look" in 1947.

Moreover, the princess is an admirer of Dior's creations and a client of his. He specially designed the ivory chiffon ball gown that she wore at her 21st birthday. She bought another evening frock and perfume from his salon when she visited Paris in October, 1951.

Soon the princess must order all her own new clothes for the autumn and winter seasons, so her study of Dior's design at Sandringham assumes added significance.

U.S. Turnpike Killer Slays Third Driver

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)—Police of two states guarded the Pennsylvania turnpike and its approaches today, fearful that a phantom killer who has already slain two sleeping truck drivers and wounded a third may follow a pattern of striking every three days.

Since a week ago Saturday, every third morning a truck driver has been found shot.

The latest victim was found wounded three days ago near Lisbon, O., just 15 miles from the western terminus of Pennsylvania's "dream" highway.

John Shepherd, 34, West Alexander, Pa., was shot in the neck just below the right ear.

Three days earlier, a fellow truck driver found the body of Harry F. Pitts, 36, Bowling Green, Va., stretched out in the cab of his truck parked beside the turnpike near Donegal, Pa.

And three days before, the body of Lester B. Woodward, 26, Duncannon, Pa., was discovered near Irwin, Pa., also on the turnpike.

In each case the killer's victim was a sleeping truck driver parked beside the road. In each case, he fired at his victim's head through an open window.

And, in each case except Pitts', he robbed his victim. It also is believed the same gun may have been used.

LITTLE EVIDENCE

Police had little evidence to go on. Shepherd told them his assailant drove a light colored Chevrolet. He told officers he was awakened by what he thought was a burst blood vessel. He said he saw a man standing in front of his truck.

When he asked for aid, Shepherd said, the man told him he had no gasoline or money and asked for $5. Before losing consciousness, the truck driver said he recalled seeing the car parked near his vehicle. Apparently the man left Shepherd to die, but the truck driver was later found by a passing motorist who called police.

Pennsylvania and Ohio state police maintained a tight, 24-hour patrol of the Turnpike and its approaches. They warned truckers and motorists of the danger and ordered drivers who pulled to the side of the highway for sleep to keep moving.

The AFL Teamsters' Union sent small posses of off-duty drivers to assist authorities and to keep watch at truckers' "coffee stops."

People Back Mossadegh's Latest Move

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Five thousand screaming, marching Communists joined Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's supporters to vote today for formal dissolution of all that's left of Iran's inactive parliament.

Most followers of Mossadegh's chief opponent, Moslem leader Ayatullah Khashani, boycotted the referendum on the fate of the lower house, the Majlis, which seemed certain to carry.

The capital and two neighboring districts voted today. The rest of the country is to ballot later in the week.

GRANDFATHER FOILED IN LAKE ERIE SWIM

CEDAR POINT, O. (AP)—Heavy seas today forced a 53-year-old grandfather to give up his attempt to swim across Lake Erie.

William Sadio Jr., a New York physical education instructor, dove in at Point Pelee, Ont., at 3.10 a.m. in an effort to cover the 30 miles to Cedar Point.

W. H. Evans, public relations director at Cedar Point, reported shortly after noon, however, that he had received a wire from Sadio's coach, Pat Roach of Toronto, saying heavy seas forced the swimmer to leave the water.

Sent from Blenheim, Ont., the wire said: "Impossible for small boat to carry through heavy seas. Ordered Sadio out of water for safety reasons. Will try again within next 10 days."

CCF'er Urges Control Of Industries, Resources

Canadians should accept the responsibility of owning and controlling the industries and resources upon which their welfare depends, Arthur Turner, MLA for Vancouver East, told a meeting of CCF supporters at a picnic at Sooke Flats, Saturday.

The CCF, he said, offered the only way towards this end.

Mr. Turner spoke on behalf of Robert McIntosh, candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich.

Mr. Turner said Canadians today are groping for a solution to the problems surrounding them. He said one of the most pressing was the matter of providing for old age pensioners.

Pensioners, he said, were being "chiselled" by the means test.

"By the present means test, five per cent of the assessed value of property belonging to old age pensioners is added to income. An increase of assessment means an increase of taxation, which means a reduction in pension."

"Thus old age pensioners are forced to pay higher taxes with

SHRINE HORSE SHOW HEROES
Clowns, Cowpokes Give Performances Despite Injuries

Clowns, like cowpokes, live by the unwritten code of the Old West.

"When they throw yuh, cowboy, yuh climb right back up."

Hardhood, as well as skill and daring, was demonstrated Saturday evening at the Victoria Shrine horse show and western games for a roaring crowd which filled the grandstand and lined the field at Macdonald Park.

Mishaps during an afternoon performance sent western style riders Clint Wilson and George Folger to city hospital emergency wards. "Cowpoke" Wilson suffered a kick in the head and his range-riding "pardon," Link Folger, got his foot stepped on by his mount.

True to tradition, both horsemen were back in the saddle again and enthusiastically cheered by the evening audience. Clint Wilson led a relay race team to victory.

But they weren't the only heroes.

A broken toe and a gashed neck and shoulder, which required seven stitches, were sustained by two clowns during the afternoon session. The thousands of spectators were unaware of the accidents.

The clowns made a hurried trip to hospital, raced back to the park and carried on with the show.

These were examples of the spirit shown throughout the display that combined prairie rough-riding with the graceful showmanship of English hunt club form.

Heroes of every small boy and girl were members of the Western Horsemen's Club, the Garden City Horsemen's Club and the Colwood Trail Riders.

MUSICAL DIVERSION

Co-sponsored by the Victoria Shriners in aid of North America's 400,000 crippled children, the equestrian events were colored by the presence of a Shrine band in full regalia and western songster Ref Stofer and his guitar.

Norma Wragg and her Hammond organ also entertained, along with Sylvia Scott, who taps on roller skates; and acrobatic Moore's, mother, father and daughter, provided feats of balance and contortion.

Trick rider Valerie Bate made spectators match their breath as she did head stands, one-legged stands and actually skipped rope while on a fast-cantering horse.

Top applause was reserved for a six-year-old, Linda Lewis, whose only feat was a dimpled smile as she chose the winning ticket, No. 2,886, from a barrel of stubs.

SHRINERS' PROTEGE

Linda is a Shriner's favorite. Two broken legs prevented her from seeing either the Coronation or Shrine parade here in June, so during the Shrine convention a band paraded at her house in a command performance.

She got a doll, nearly as big as herself, for helping at the drawing. The lucky ticket, which wins a refrigerator, was not claimed.

Here are the winners of the

MP Urges Murder House Be Razed

LONDON (Reuters)—George Rogers, Labor member of Parliament, is heading a campaign to tear down No. 10, 10 Rillington Place, London's "murder house" where John Christie killed and concealed his wife and five other women.

"Short of pulling down the house, it is hard to see what can be done to stop the people going there," Rogers said today. He professed himself "dismayed" by the crowds of sightseers who have been collecting in Rillington Place, many with cameras.

Texas Hotel Fire Takes Lives of 7

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP)—Seven persons perished early today when fire swept through a second-story 12-room hotel here. Four other persons were injured as the flames gutted the hotel, which occupied a single floor above a cafe and a clothing store.

Firemen said five of the bodies were found clustered around a window in one of the rooms. They said the victims apparently suffocated.

Gas Fumes Fatal To Vancouver Pair

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two occupants of a city rooming house died Sunday as the result of domestic gas poisoning.

Dead are Mrs. Lorraine Mayall, 25, and Haaken S. Seland, 60.

Police said three burners of a gas stove in Mrs. Mayall's room were found open by the landlady. Seland was found dead in an adjoining room, apparently overcome by fumes from the woman's suite.

Coldwell Raps Unemployment Insurance Plan

CCF Leader Sees Benefits Inadequate

NANAIMO — Benefits provided by the unemployment insurance fund are inadequate, CCF leader M. J. Coldwell said in a speech in Nanaimo Saturday night.

He said the maximum benefit of $24 a week was entirely inadequate to support a family, and complained, too, that benefits were denied persons unable to continue working because of ill-health.

"It is the most ironical," Mr. Coldwell said, "that at the very time when the worker needs some income to maintain himself and his family he is denied any benefits, irrespective of how long he may have been paying into the unemployment insurance fund."

"DELIBERATE OVERSIGHT"

He said this was "a deliberate oversight" of the government.

He said a CCF government would correct this and, further, would seek to eliminate the present waiting period and non-compensable days.

He urged that benefits be increased to be more in line with the cost of living. He said there was no justification for keeping benefits low, since the unemployment insurance fund had assets totalling nearly $850,000,000.

Air-Ground Search For Manitoba Youth

THE PAS, Man. (CP)—Three aircraft and a 25-man search party were out again today after combing the mosquito-infested wilderness east of the Moose Lake settlement Sunday for an 18-year-old youth missing since July 25.

The youth, Robert Buck, strayed away from a party of six east of Moose Lake, some 50 miles east of The Pas in northwestern Manitoba.

RCMP said the biggest menace facing Buck is the mosquitoes. The insects were so thick, that a police dog had to be continually sprayed Sunday while on the hunt.

Buck wore only a cotton shirt, trousers and moccasins.

French Trade Deficit Reaches $652,000,000

PARIS (AP)—The French ministry of finance in a report issued today said the franc area had a trade deficit of $652,000,000 in 1952.

The deficit was $406,000,000 less than that reported for 1951, but $414,000,000 greater than that of 1950.

Big Three Discuss Austria Treaty Talks

LONDON (UP)—The United States, Britain and France will consult formally this week on Russia's latest conditional offer to resume talks on the Austrian treaty, officials said today.

Moscow proposed last week to resume the long-delayed talks on Austria, provided the west dropped its abbreviated treaty text which it introduced last year to speed up a final settlement.

First Loyalty to Public, Not Party, Jukes Contends

An attack on the political party system was made Saturday by Major A. H. Jukes, independent Social Credit candidate in Victoria, speaking at Norfolk House School.

"A member of parliament should be the servant of his constituents and not the henchman of any party," the candidate contended.

Legislation of lasting benefit, he said, can only come with the consent and co-operation of all the people.

He likened party platforms to "a declaration of war on the rest of the community, without any peace terms."

He said the Liberal platform promise of a national health scheme was an example, since the scheme would apparently be forced on all provinces whether they wanted it or not.

The Future of E.D.C.

THE DEFEAT OF THE DE GAS-peri government in Italy may be the last straw needed to break the camel's back of the European Defense Community.

After a year of debate in the western European capitals the proposed international army is still on paper. Only Germany has ratified the necessary agreements. The succession of temporary French governments has deliberately stalled the whole issue because it fears that an international army would soon be dominated by its German contingent. In Italy de Gasperi promised to secure ratification of the EDC plan if he won the recent election. Now it turns out that he actually lost the election and his damaged government has fallen.

Something else has happened to undermine the EDC. The Korean truce, the prospect of some settlement between Russia and the West, will certainly encourage all the European states to postpone decisions which have always been disagreeable to them. If Russia is no longer bent on expansion, if Europe is safe, why set up an expensive international army? Why arm the Germans at all?

That argument may be dangerous, since there is no assurance of a peaceful policy in Russia, but it certainly will be used from now on. Perhaps it is time to admit openly what most Europeans have long been saying privately—that EDC already is dead and some alternative must be found. If so, what about German rearmament?

All the United States' policies in Europe, its whole plan of European defense, are based on the assumption of a German contribution. Without substantial German forces, the United States believes, Europe cannot be defended.

Germany has agreed, ratified the E.D.C. agreement and is ready to provide soldiers in the line. But in Germany, too, the climate has been changing. Where Chancellor Adenauer had formerly rejected all Russian offers to re-unify his country until Western Germany was re-armed and integrated into western Europe, he is now ready to discuss re-unification immediately. He has been hearing from his voters on the eve of an election.

Above everything else the German people desire to re-possess their whole historic territory. If Russia is now prepared to unify the two Germanys it will agree only if Germany remains unarmed and Germany may accept reunification on those terms. That would be the end of E.D.C. and all the present military calculations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

On the other hand, if Russia has no intention of retreating from Eastern Germany, if its offer of a settlement turns out to be only a bluff or a trap, if a four-power conference fails to reach any agreement, then all the European states may be driven back to E.D.C., with a German contingent in an international army, as their only hope of defense.

With all these imponderables in play events throughout Europe are now moving towards a climax probably outside the control of Russia or the West. For the one certain fact in all this confusion is that in the end the future of Germany, the heart of the world struggle, will not be decided by foreigners. It will be decided by the German people.

It is equally sure that among the Germans Russian policy has been a dismal failure. It has turned them irrevocably, even in the eastern zone, against communism.

Why Subsidies?

IN PLACE OF THE PRESENT tax agreements between the federal and provincial governments, Mr. Drew promises a redefinition of taxation fields. That is to say, the federal government would cease to pay the present subsidies to the provinces, it would limit its own taxation to certain sources of revenue and the provinces, granted separate sources, would finance themselves without federal assistance.

That, of course, would be an ideal arrangement, but like many ideal arrangements, it happens to be impossible.

The Rowell-Sirois Commission considered this whole problem for several years with the best technical advice obtainable. It concluded that the federal system could not operate successfully without some system of subsidies paid by the central government to the provinces.

This is so because nature and man-made policies have largely concentrated the wealth of the nation in the central region of Ontario and Quebec. Some of the provinces, like all the Maritimes, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, cannot raise within their own territory enough revenue to finance a decent level of public services. Some of the cream often produced elsewhere but accumulated in the rich central area, must be skimmed off and redistributed to the poorer areas.

The Fathers of Confederation found the same thing. They could not have attracted some of the provinces into Canada in the first place without a system of subsidies. Later on, in the depression years of the thirties, the whole social fabric of the nation was strained almost beyond endurance by the inequalities of wealth between the provinces, exaggerated by the general poverty.

It was to cure this dilemma that the Rowell-Sirois Commission was appointed. While its exact proposals were never implemented, the present tax agreements are based on its conclusions and, on the whole, have produced satisfactory results. Only Quebec has refused to enter this bargain. Though Mr. Drew always attacked the agreements, his successor in the premiership of Ontario, Mr. Frost, has accepted them.

However, any province which wishes to drop out may do so. Then, having lost its federal subsidies, it can return to the collection of income and corporation taxes. This would mean that the local taxpayers would pay full federal taxes plus the new provincial taxes. The ordinary taxpayer, faced with two income taxes, will hardly favor such a reform.

It has been suggested, in support of Mr. Drew's theory, that the provinces should be given the sole right to collect corporation income taxes, which would be sufficient to support them.

The head offices of Canadian business are largely concentrated in Toronto and Montreal, where their profits are taxed. A relatively small rate of tax would be sufficient, in Ontario and Quebec, to finance the provincial governments. The other provinces, having few head offices of large corporations, and thus small profits to tax, would have to levy a much higher rate than that of Ontario and Quebec.

Then, of course, every business which could manage it would move its head office out of the high-rate into the low-rate provinces. There would be a flight of corporate management from all over the country to Toronto and Montreal. That would further reduce the revenue yields of the poorer provinces and they would have to raise their rates, at the expense of discouraging investment in local business.

When all these problems are considered it will be seen that the tax agreements, while not ideal, are the best solution yet devised for a sprawling country of unequal wealth and varying economic problems.

It's Your Money That Burns

SUPPRESSION CREWS brought two spot fires under control quickly on the southern section of Vancouver Island late last week. For that they are to be commended. But the outbreak of the two fires serves as ample warning of the inflammable condition of the forests.

No one can afford to be careless while the woods are so dry.

The warnings against heedlessness at this season have been repeated so frequently they have become stale. But the reasons for the warnings should be as fresh as ever.

British Columbia's economy depends so heavily on the products of the forests that no one can escape loss when the raw materials are burned. In other words, it's your dollars that go up in smoke when fire breaks out in the woods. Light your smokes, if you must, with burning dollar bills. But don't light million dollar bills with your cigar, cigarette or campfire.

Nyet, Nyet!

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S LIQUOR Control Board is not planning to buy any vodka, reports Commissioner Donald McGugan. He explains the board's decision by saying there has been no demand for the drink.

The explanation will be accepted in some quarters. In others it will be doubted. Fear may be the answer. With the teaching profession under criticism for alleged Communist infection and labor unions subjected to similar charges, why should the B.C. Liquor Control Board permit even the slightest suspicion of infiltration by the Russian spirit?

The 90-Day Test

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

A SPORTS editor was saying the other day that we shall see wonders from the Fijians in the British Empire Games next year. And I'm sure we shall. Not only are they physically superb (even on a modern diet), but they play games with wonderful enthusiasm, and catch on to things quickly. But when this editor claims the Fijians must be the best natural athletes in the world, I fancy that is a pretty big claim.

It is certainly impressive, as he points out, to find those few scores of thousands turning out a rugby team that whipped almost everything in Australia, a land of excellent rugby. The boys from Fiji lost one game, which was played in mud... they had never played rugby at home during the rains. It was also gratifying when a Fijian won the shot-put at the last Empire Games, which were held at Auckland in '50.

BUT with all honor to the gallant and lovable Fijians, I hardly think these two feats by themselves are enough to make them the best natural athletes that exist. The two feats may be merely typical of other things they can do, or are going to do. I'm just talking about the present argument based on the present record.

The Maori could probably field a team that would beat the Fijians at rugby. And rugby isn't the only game. The West Indians have won test matches at cricket. Anyone who has ever watched little Chinese boys in Hong Kong doing magical things with a soccer ball is always full of regret that the Chinese don't take soccer seriously when they grow up. Full of regret, or full of relief, depending on what view he takes of international sport. Other examples will occur to those who have read and traveled more widely than myself... one hears tales of absolutely first-rate polo, for example, in tiny villages in Pakistan, where polo was invented so long ago.

AS for competition between individuals, not teams... well, many races have surprised the so-called Nordics. There was the Indian recruit who turned out at his regimental sports in 1934 or so, never having run a mile in his life before. He ran a race in 4.02 in his bare feet. I suppose he was so relieved to get his army boots off, it lent wings to his heels. And I think I have told you about the farmer in Rhodesia who was impressed by the way his boys threw spears at big game. He bought them a regulation javelin, and every single boy on the farm broke the world's record on his first throw.

AND then there are the Dinka, and other tall thin tribes of the southern Sudan, who have a hobby of high-jumping. To these men a jump of seven feet is commonplace. Incidentally, it was commonplace to the poet Calverley, too. You may know his light verse. He was an Englishman who died perhaps 50 years ago. In full evening dress, with a short run on a slippery floor in his slippery pumps, he could clear six feet with ease... this was a world's record (at that time) for serious jumpers at serious track and field meets, but it meant nothing to Calverley, except that he was having a good party.

He is said to have cleared a grand piano on a standing jump. This would impress us, but the Dinka would agree with Calverley in thinking it nothing but good mild fun, and quite usual.

AND there must be races in the Andes, even today, who could show the Sherpas a thing or two about high-altitude climbing. And so on... I wish I knew more human geography; to multiply these examples. Little though I know, I have enough knowledge and enough imagination to bet that the world of sport could be knocked silly by a millionaire who wanted to roam the earth picking up gifted natives to compete in various events. I think it was Aldous Huxley who once had a dream along these lines. But he never did anything about it.

WHAT'S THE DOPE?

TALKING of sport, there has been a correspondence in The Times (London) about the doping of athletes. Not to make them lose races to fool the bookmakers, you understand, but to increase their powers so as to break records. Well, nobody wants to see athletes going round all hopped up on opium derivatives, or anything like that. It was all right for Coleridge and Byron and De Quincey to write under the influence of laudanum, etc., but fashions have changed. And in any event, writers are allowed to be wicked, while athletes must set an example. People even WANT writers to be wicked.

As Our Readers See It

TWO-PARTY SYSTEM

In several of your editorials of late you endeavor to confuse the public with your own distortion of facts, which you seem set on doing from time to time in order to embarrass the government. In one editorial you denounce Premier Bennett for taking any part in the federal election, and that the premier is out to create the same political situation as occurred in B.C. 12 months ago, and in another editorial you said that the two important posts should not be allowed to remain in the hands of two individuals who have been rejected by the voters.

In both of the two so-called rejections they were elected by large majorities by the very system of alternative voting. You conveniently forget that this system was devised and designed by the Coalition parties in order to keep the CCF out. But the system backfired and put out both Liberals and Conservatives. We should return to the straight two-party system of voting—simple and legal. MRS. H. WHITEFIELD.

CALL ANSWERED

A complaint has been received by our vice-president, Mr. P. L. Green, to the effect the society refused to answer a call on Sunday evening, July 26, to render aid to a badly injured dog, some 14 miles out in the Central Saanich district. In dealing with this call the inspector suggested that as it was some distance out, time might be saved by getting in touch with the police and that if this was unsuccessful, he would himself come out with the small animal ambulance, which he did, driving over the West Saanich highway, Stelly's Cross Road and back along the East Saanich Road. He made search for the dog at both crossroads and made enquiries of several individuals without success.

All told, this call consumed two hours' time and involved driving the ambulance a distance of 32 miles. Such apparently fruitless calls—and quite a number are received every month—represent a considerable expense to the society and place a strain, which it can ill afford at this time, on its very limited budget. T. R. MYERS.

Hon. Sec. Victoria SPCA.

NO BETTER

In my opinion the exhortation in general expressed in the last six paragraphs of Rev. Ruthven's contentious tract as reported in the Times of July 28 is most excellent.

It is the privilege of this gentleman "to proselytize for Social Credit" if he likes, for that is a tenet of British freedom, and it is to your credit, Sir, to give him such generous space. But emotional appeal to bigotry and intolerance has no place in good government.

Yes, believe it or not, the Bible sets the standard of candidates for election to parliament and for all who are set in authority over us, in these words: "Thou shalt provide out of all the people able men such as fear God, men of truth, hating covetousness." Ex. 18:21.

The Secreds have no corner on Christianity. Unquestionably there are many candidates in the other parties who subscribe to, and practice, the teachings of Holy Writ, with due allowance for human error, to which everyone is prone—to quote your clever columnist, Nancy Hodges, "nor am I prepared to accept the author's suggestion that a Social Creditor is necessarily a better Christian than say, Mr. James George, the Conservative candidate, or Major-General Pearkes, VC."

C. M. CADWALLADER.
511 Admirals Road.

WOULD IT PROFIT US?

It is said in this day and age to read a letter like that of R. E. Robinson. Evidently Mr. Robinson's real reason for opposing Vatican representation is as he says, not political.

Whether we have an ambassador at the Vatican or otherwise should be decided, not on religious grounds, but by reason and common sense. Would it profit us or not? Great Britain, France, Egypt, Finland and more than 40 other nations seem to find it worthwhile to maintain embassies at the Vatican. They must have good solid reasons for doing so.

It is patent that the chimera of infringement on the "Church and State" principle does not alarm them as it does Mr. Robinson and the PAOU which played such a prominent part in the U.S. rumour over the same question.

Would it not be sensible in these cataclysmic days, when the forces of evil are thundering at our gates, when disloyal citizens within, parading as champions of democracy, are gnawing at the vitals of our sacred institutions, when many eveng among the elect are deceived by wolves in sheep's clothing, to drop all hypocrisy and cant, to lay aside our petty jealousies, our mean little prejudices, our ugly animosities, to examine our consciences, to see ourselves as brothers under God?

The beloved and gentle John writes, almost in anger: "If any may say, I love God, and hate his brother; he is a liar." Let us rid ourselves of the old hates, put on the mantle of charity and present a united front to our satanic enemy, whose motto is: "Divide and conquer."

If we fail, and disunited, we shall fail, then may God help us, because the end will be the catamounts for all.

J. J. CONNAGHAN.
2745 Fifth Street.

FEDERAL PROPERTY

Much is being said in this election about tax-free federal property. Should the federal government pay taxes on its holdings throughout the country? If so, should our school boards pay taxes on school property?

To me they are both in the same category of non-profit making and for the benefit of the public as a whole, so why muddle up bookkeeping?

Some municipalities have a much larger share of tax-free property than others. What would Esquimalt, for instance, do if the federal government pulled out of that municipality? It is the largest payroll in the district paying the going wages and it is to the interest of the government that the establishments there are kept going.

This has been a football long enough. In districts where there are no schools the government has undertaken to furnish schools, teachers, etc.

A present there are 10,000 pupils who require 400 teachers as 45 per cent of our soldiers are married and have families. N. MCGILL.

IGNORANCE IS BLISS

As the election campaign enters its final stage it is more apparent daily how ignorant Waldo Skillings is with reference to Social Credit platform. He admits he knows nothing of it and refuses by sheer inability to answer questions when put to him at public meetings and yet he expects us to vote for him.

The very fact that the Secred party have only been able to find 70 people in all Canada to stand for them as candidates indicates how hopeless the matter is. If they were all elected they could not form a government and so very clearly they should be voted against.

Vote for James George, the straight honest to goodness Conservative, who hasn't changed his coat with the wind. JESSIE CAMERON.
RR 5, Gordon Head.

An Eastern View of August 10

Toronto Saturday Night

BY the time those citizens who are not indisposed, indifferent or on holiday, mark their ballots to decide who will represent them in Canada's 22nd Parliament, they will have heard and read many more appeals to their emotions than to their intelligence. But if they have been able to reject the emotion and retain reason, they will give with their votes the answers to two main questions:

Has the administration of Mr. St. Laurent earned another term in office? If not, who should be entrusted with the job of government?

The evidence upon which judgment can be made is available to everyone, although the way it is assembled will lead inevitably to diverse decisions. Our conclusion is that the Liberal regime, for all its faults (and they are many), has handled the nation's affairs well enough to deserve a renewed mandate; but coupled with this conclusion is the fervent hope that if the Liberals are returned to office, there will be enough Opposition candidates in the new House to restore to the government the respect for Parliament which has been diminished during recent years.

SOUND POLICIES

The fundamental policies of the Liberals have been sound. Some of the methods used in putting the policies into practice can be questioned, but we cannot deny that the policies themselves have been good for most of the people, which is as much as we can ask in a country as difficult to govern as Canada.

We have found much to criticize in the St. Laurent administration; it has shown increasing indifference to proper parliamentary processes, it has been reluctant to yield extraordinary powers, and it has revealed, in the conduct of some of its Ministers, the weaknesses which creep into a party softened by success.

But these are faults of circumstance, not of political philosophy, and can be corrected by public criticism and the efforts of a stronger, more forceful Opposition.

A loss in the forthcoming election undoubtedly would teach the Liberals a needed lesson in humility; but defeat for them would mean victory for another party, and who would replace them? The victors could not be the CCF or Social Credit, splinter groups in federal politics.

The Progressive Conservative party is the only alternative, but unfortunately, the Conservatives have done little to convince us that they are ready for the job of government. They have lacked a sense of direction, and there has been little cohesion in their political thinking; they have criticized without doing much about production of better policies, and the policies they have proposed have not been of a piece.

The sixteen points in their election program are either pitifully vague or recklessly specific; such items as plans for overseas trade and measures to save money are wrapped in bland generalities, but a flat promise is made to reduce taxes by $500 million.

WHAT CUTS?

We would be happy indeed if we had to pay less taxes, but we do not think that Mr. Drew would be able to make such a reduction without cutting expenditures very sharply, and we want to know where the cuts would be made before we enthuse over his glittering pledge.

Return of a much stronger Conservative opposition to Parliament, however, would do much for both the major parties and through them for the nation itself. The Liberals would have to tighten their administration and learn respect for parliamentary processes. The Conservatives would have an opportunity to strengthen their leadership and political thinking, while helping to restore to Parliament the prestige and dignity it lost during the years of the top-heavy Liberal majority.

MARKED for READING
MOTIVES

Many and various are the impulses that lead to the writing of verse. I shall by no means attempt to catalogue all of them. One person may be driven by an inner urge to formulate some personal truth or revelation, half buried, and in need of clarification and assertion. Another may take a sheer sensory delight in the sound and shape of words, in their rhythmic relationships, the felicitous interplay of vowels and consonants. Still a third person, brooding on the mystery of the cosmos, may seek to extract its secrets and preserve in harmonious form his humble and fragmentary discoveries. Whatever the motive, it stems from the need to make a concrete design out of unexpressed feeling, sensations, intuitions, to extract and lift particles of order out of the general chaos.

—Adeline Case, in "Making a Poem: An Inquiry Into the Creative Process."

Socreds on the Record

(Condensed from Leslie Roberts' "New Liberty" article: "Social Credit Means Dictatorship.")

THE avowed intention of its leader to make Social Credit a national political party—destined, according to one of its senior spokesmen, Rev. E. G. Hansell, MP, to replace the Conservatives—raises questions vital to every Canadian.

On the documented record... here is what we may expect to get, if and when Social Credit is seated securely in the Ottawa saddle:

1. Abolition of all other political parties.
2. Extinction of General Elections as a means of choosing future governments.
3. Immediate rubbing-out of the secret ballot.

On April 15, 1945, National Leader Solon Low declared that the election of Social Credit to federal power "would mean the end of party politics and possibly of general elections." In 1946, the Alberta Social Credit Board, then official mouthpiece and pamphleteer for the party, came up with this announcement: "The obvious remedy for the evils of party politics is the abolition of political parties dominated at the top as we know them today."

As to the fate of the secret ballot, cornerstone of the democratic process, the party's propaganda board, which released its filmations... from the Legislative Building in Edmonton, had this to say: "There seems to be no reason why a voter should not place an open, signed ballot into the ballot-box, thus openly declaring the results he wanted and automatically assuming responsibility for the policy adopted."

FOOT THE BILL

It may be taken for granted that a voter would, under such circumstances, ponder carefully the manner in which he proposed to mark his ballot, knowing that, as a result of a wrong decision, he would suffer the consequences and moreover be obliged to foot the bill.

The gentlemen appear to have forgotten the purpose of the secret ballot. It exists solely to protect the individual from the tyrant who would wreak vengeance on the dissenter if he could find him.

None of the statements quoted, like scores of similar items in the record, have ever been refuted or denied by any member of the party hierarchy. What they add up to is a proposed political system for Canada virtually identical with those which Mussolini gave Italy, Hitler gave Germany and Stalin gave the Soviet Union. That is how politics will be run in the new "Christian democracy."

In 1937 the provincial (Alberta) Social Credit administration dreamed up and passed something called "The Accurate News and Information Act"... to demand and secure from any newspaper editor at 24 hours notice a list of the sources of any news item which had appeared in his newspaper during the previous 60 days.

If the editor failed to reveal his news sources, or to satisfy his inquisitors, then the provincial government, on recommendation of the Chairman of the Social Credit Board, could suspend publication of the newspaper for an indefinite period and ban publication in future of anything written by any person specified in the order.

WHAT IS IT?

If that is not controlling the news, by threat of suspension of publication, as surely as the Kremlin controls what the editors of Pravda write, then what is it?

The federal courts threw Alberta's Accurate News Act out of the window. But no Social Credit leader has ever declared it to have been ill-conceived law, enacted in haste and later repented, or that given federal power, the party would not bring control of the press and of writers into its own hands.

Then there was the gem known as "An Act to Provide for the Restriction of Civil Rights for Certain Persons"... In other words, if you don't work for people approved by the Star Chamber, your rights as a citizen will be taken away from you. Period.

IN HOLLYWOOD

Battle of the Hems

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Christian Dior suffered a setback in his drive for shorter skirts today when the eight winners of the 1953 Miss Universe contest unanimously thumbed down his proposal.

BOB THOMAS

The French designer shocked the fashion world with his new creations, which showed the skirt line as barely below the knee. Elsa Schiaparelli took up the challenge and lengthened her new dresses to 13 inches from the floor, even lower than last year.

Norman Hartnell, designer for the Queen, issued an edict that skirts would stay where they are—mid-calf. Hattie Carnegie sided with Dior.

The women of the world are the ones who will decide the battle of the hems. You couldn't find a prettier cross-section for sampling opinion than the eight beauties who won screen contracts in the recent Miss Universe contest. Judging from them, Dior is doomed for defeat.

The beautiful octette is currently training for the harem in "Yankee Pasha" at Universal-International. With the aid of interpreters, I evoked these opinions on the hemline hassle:

As in the case of Alberta's attack on the press, the federal courts threw out the Social Crediters' law denying civil rights to "money changers." But again, no member of the hierarchy has ever said that the party would not re-enact this remarkable piece of legislation as soon as national power were achieved.

All manner of men are to feel the lash as soon as the Christian Democratic state has been established. Workers and bosses alike are in disfavor, as witness two statements from Solon Low:

"If Communism ever gets hold of Canada, it won't be because of Social Credit. It will be because of the stubbornness and pig-headedness of the people who call themselves the Chamber of Commerce."

'NEW MESSIAHS'

"The Canadian Congress of Labor unions are Communist-dominated."

The new Messiahs will take over the Chamber of Commerce and the unions.

According to the creed, in fact, they will take over everybody's affairs. In the words of the Founder himself, Major C. H. Douglas, "The majority in matters of detail, in matters of intelligence, is, broadly speaking, always wrong," which simply means that your Social Credit holder holds the view that people are not fitted to govern themselves, or to choose men to govern them, with the consent of the governed.

The current crop of educators and institutions of learning are not popular with the Socreds either.

National Leader Solon Low urges that "a complete house-cleaning be made in the schools and universities, so that truth may be taught."

Whose truth?

Long before anybody outside Wisconsin heard of Joe McCarthy... Low was telling the Montreal Star that McGill University is a "Red hot-bed"... a few days later he was telling the Province (Vancouver) "from personal observations I know that the number of school teachers now tainted by Communist thinking in Canada is up in the thousands." As in Montreal, no evidence was offered.

The country is not doing so well, either, for according to Low "Confederation in Canada is a myth"... And as for the United Nations, to John H. Blackmore, MP, generally regarded as a candidate for Minister of Finance, its founders were "a group of gangsters," while to Mr. Low the UN is "a booby-trap baited to draw Canada into a World Government."

THEME SONG

There is a sort of theme song here. Premier Manning of Alberta has declared that "the objective of international finance is a World Slave State," and sees Canada at the mercy of an "international financial junta."

When accused of anti-Semitism, however, the Social Crediters attempt to draw a subtle distinction. They are not anti-Semitic, Mr. Low said in the House of Commons on Dec. 11, 1952, but merely against "international political Zionism" which has "far more adherents than Jews."

The reasons behind these continuing diatribes against international finance are not easy to discern. The Manning government has always been ready to assist the despised financiers who seek the "enslavement of mankind"... a vast gulf yawns between words and deeds in the attitude of Socred leaders to the "financial junta" they vow is determined to enslave us.

Has the record of Social Credit as government been as good as the chorus averts? Well, it is true that the bonded debt of Alberta has been reduced by about 30 million dollars since 1940. But it is also true that municipal debt has increased by almost 30 millions during the same period. No matter how you slice it, the money is owed by the same people.

A purely provincial show yesterday, and, therefore, unable to tear great rents in the national fabric, Social Credit's implications are national today.

Mr. Hansell speaks for the movement. And what Hansell says is that Social Credit's next step is to swallow Tories.

Miss Universe, Christiane Martel of France—"I agree with Monsieur Hartnell. The present skirt length is ideal for women. There are few women who have the perfect legs to wear short skirts. If a woman is wide at the hips and you bring up the skirt, it makes her look like a barrel."

Miss United States, Myrna Hansen of Chicago—"I must prefer the skirt length at mid-calf. I like it even lower with pencil dresses. Will American women go for the new Dior length? They might go for anything."

Miss South Africa, Ingrid Rita Mills—"I am in favor of the skirt where it is—about 14 inches from the floor. If you have it any shorter, you are bound to see a girl's bony knees. And after all, all knees are bony."

Miss Australia, Maxine Morgan—"If you haven't got a curved calf, the present skirt is much more flattering than a short one. I don't think the hemline should be changed. A girl can't be putting up her skirt and lowering it all the time."

But lest Dior split his seams over this international rebuff, I can report that he had at least one convert at the studio. She was Mamie Van Doren, U-I's answer to Marilyn Monroe. Said she: "I'm in favor of higher skirts. Lower necklines, too. If a girl has good assets, she shouldn't keep them hidden."

Manitoba Man Killed When Hit By Truck While Checking Tire

GIMLI, Man. (CP)—William Demidash of Gimli was killed early Sunday when struck by an RCAF truck on the Fraserwood road.

Mr. Demidash was checking a flat tire behind his automobile when the truck crashed into the standing vehicle. The truck was believed to have been operated by M. B. Dolan of the RCAF, Gimli. Dolan and a passenger, Cpl. O. W. Carragher of the RCAF, were taken to Deer Lodge Hospital at Winnipeg.

Extent of their injuries is not known. Four passengers in the Demidash car suffered facial and body injuries. They were taken to Gimli Hospital and three were later released. The victims' father, Henry Demidash, escaped injury.

TRAIL HIKERS TREK

Seattle Conspiracy Trial Defendant Found Dead in Bed

SEATTLE (AP)—William S. Pennock, president of the Washington Penitentiary Union and one of seven defendants in a government Communist conspiracy trial here, was found dead in his home late Sunday night.

Cause of death was not determined immediately.

The King County coroner's office said Pennock was found dead in his bed. He was last seen alive about 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

Deputy Coroner Mike Gray quoted Pennock's personal physician, Dr. Morris Gold, that Pennock was in an extremely nervous condition and under strain during the three-and-one-half-month trial. The doctor said he had been treating Pennock for insomnia.

Pennock, the first defendant to take the witness stand in the prolonged trial, was testifying Friday when the trial recessed. He was scheduled to undergo cross-examination when the trial convened Tuesday.

UN Asked to Act in South Africa

GENEVA (AP)—A former South African labor leader called on the United Nations today to take effective action against policies of racial segregation in South Africa, or to remove all condemnation of such policies from the UN charter.

E. S. Sachs, former general secretary of the South African Garment Workers' Union, told a UN commission investigating the racial situation in South Africa that apartheid was poisoning every aspect of the social and economic life of the union and constituted a danger to world peace.

The "pious resolutions and platonic sympathy" of the United Nations during the last seven years have proved futile, Sachs declared.

ISLAND DIGEST

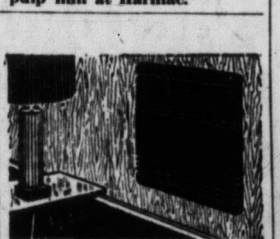

CAMPBELL RIVER—Mayor Joe Hitchens of Courtenay has begun active participation in the current federal election campaign in support of Social Credit. Mayor Hitchens spoke here Friday at a meeting for Socred candidate Harry Watson.

NANAIMO—Park Board chairman J. C. McGregor and Mrs. McGregor observed their golden wedding anniversary Saturday with an "at home." Mr. McGregor was born in this city. His grandfather came to B.C. in 1849 and his father was born at Sooke. Mrs. McGregor came to Canada at age six from Glasgow.

NANAIMO—The Junior Chamber of Commerce here is intent on getting voters to the polls Aug. 19. The local group has accepted a challenge from the Calgary Junior Chamber of Commerce that it can get a better turnout of voters, on a percentage basis, than they can. A Stetson hat will be at stake in the competition.

PORT ALBERNI—A definite slump in deepsea shipping from here was registered in July. Lumber shipped totalled little more than half the previous month's total. Nine freighters, 8,903,330 board feet of lumber, Shingles and woodpulp were also shipped during the month.

CEDAR—Residents of Cedar already have prepared a protest petition which they will present to the winning candidate in Nanaimo riding after the Aug. 10 election. The petition was circulated at a recent meeting of the Cedar and North Oyster Bay-Payers' Association, and protests against the "objectionable and foul odors emanating from MacMillan and Bloedel's pulp mill at Harmac."

Two Channel Records Fall To Egyptians

WISSANT, France (AP)—Egyptian swimmers established two English Channel records Sunday, but Florence Chadwick, 33-year-old San Diego, Calif., typist, who twice has conquered the testing 25 miles, failed in her third attempt.

Miss Chadwick, who had swum across the tricky stretch of water in each direction, started out to swim it non-stop both ways.

Abd Elatif Abou Heif, 23, figured in both records for swimming from England to the French coast. He was a member of the six-man Egyptian team which hung up a relay record of 10 hours and 51 minutes and then lowered the individual mark to 13 hours, 45 minutes.

Miss Chadwick was pulled out of the water, was exhausted, about nine miles off the French coast, after swimming for nine hours and 55 minutes. For much of the time she had been sick.

Berlin Uprisings May Wash Out Reds in West

FRANKFURT (Reuters)—The West German Communist party may be wiped out as a parliamentary faction at the coming elections because of public feeling over the anti-Communist riots in East Germany and the provisions of the new West German electoral law.

The electoral law decrees that parties must win at least 5 per cent of the total vote, or at least one seat in direct voting, to qualify for seats under proportional representation. Half of the 484 deputies to the new Bundestag will be elected directly and half according to a proportional system.

In the first federal elections in August, 1949, the Communists got 1,360,000 votes, or 5.6 per cent of the total. This gave them 15 seats in the Bundestag on the basis of proportional representation. No Communist was elected directly.

U.S. Senate Blocks President's Plan To Lift Debt Limit

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate finance committee Saturday night rejected President Eisenhower's request to increase the national debt limit. The action apparently cleared the way for congressional adjournment on Tuesday.

The committee's action was a hammer blow to Mr. Eisenhower. His request that the debt limit be raised from $275,000,000,000 to $290,000,000,000 had sailed through the House.

The development put it up to the president whether he must call a special session of Congress this fall to act on the measure. Republican leaders have hinted he would do that if Congress rebuffed him now.

Newsprint From Sugar Cane Is Successful

NEW DELHI (BUP)—Newsprint made from the sugar cane by-product bagasse has been used successfully for the first time in India.

"The Statesman," an influential British-owned paper, used the newsprint to publish one edition.

Newsprint from bagasse has great potentialities in India. More than 1,500,000 tons of it is available yearly. At present most of it is used as fuel. If only a fraction of the bagasse could be diverted to the manufacture of paper, India could be self-sufficient in newsprint.

SIGHTSEERS AT SCENE OF SEX MURDERS

LONDON (Reuters)—A crowd of sightseers Saturday night turned up at London's infamous 10 Rillington Place, slum tenement where John Christie murdered at least six women, including his wife.

The occupier charged the visitors 35 cents each to see the cupboards, washhouse and back yard where stranger Christie had hidden his victims.

But halfway through the conducted tour, neighbors complained to police. They took the occupier—who refused to give his name—aside for a little chat. The sightseers, including foreigners, left soon after.

Christie was executed about a month ago.

Father, Son Drowned In Skeena River

SKEENA CROSSING, B.C. (CP)—Efforts to recover the body of a six-year-old boy from the Skeena River proved unsuccessful Sunday.

SIU Ousts UMW On Hall Ships In Great Lakes

MONTREAL (BUP)—The Seafarers International Union has been certified collective bargaining representative for the unlicensed seamen of the 15 Hall Corporation ships on the Great Lakes.

The National Labor Relations Board said a poll it conducted on the ships during the last three weeks gave 205 votes to the SIU and 34 to the United Mine Workers, District 50.

The vote ended a long conflict between the two unions, during which the UMW charged the SIU with threatening disruption of the shipping industry by a general strike.

Hal C. Banks, SIU international vice-president, said the vote clearly indicated the seamen did not want to be associated with the mine workers.

The UMW had represented the men on the Hall ships for 18 years.

Two Striking Miners Face Kidnap Charge

TIMMINS, Ont. (BUP)—Two striking miners, accused of kidnapping a mine worker who sneaked through the bush to avoid picket lines at Brouhan Reef mine, were freed today on $1,000 property bail and no date was set for an arraignment.

The charges were laid after Donald Cook, 20, complained to police that he had been forced into a car Saturday night as he left the cookhouse and driven 12 miles away from the mine.

Cook told police he had tried to enter the mine to go to work on three successive mornings but pickets turned him back. He said he finally entered by crawling through nearby bush.

Kidnaping charges were laid Sunday against Manzel Imhoff of South Porcupine and Kenneth Legge of Hallnor Township. Police said description of the car involved in the kidnap led them to the two miners.

Lone Week-End Win

Victoria 6-4, Spokane 5-10
Victoria 4, Spokane 8

Victoria Tyees remained in the Western International League's second division over the week-end as they dropped two games out of three to the Spokane Indians at Spokane.

After winning the seven-inning opener of Saturday night's double-header, 6-5, Tyees dropped the second game 10-4 and then lost 8-4 in Sunday's lone game.

The Tyees are in Vancouver tonight to open a series with Harvey Storey's Capilanos.

DRILLING WINNER

Bob Drilling picked up the victory Saturday night, his 10th against a dozen losses and had to choke off a last-ditch rally by the Spokes that netted them four runs in the last of the seventh inning.

Tyees picked up a 6-1 lead in the first six innings, scoring singles in the fourth and fifth and four in the sixth frame, topped by a bases-loaded single by Granny Gladstone.

Spokane sent four runners across the plate in the last inning and had the tying and winning runs on base when Bob Moniz hauled down Stan Paly's vicious drive to end the game.

Indians clubbed Berlyn Hodges, Drilling, Earl Dorrin for their victory in the second game.

PRIOR LOSER

Bill Prior was the loser in Sunday's game as he was unable to hold a 4-2 lead given him in the early innings. George New pitched sparkling relief ball for Spokane, blanking Tyees on one hit in three and one-third innings after taking over from starter Bob Nemes.

Will Hafez was the fly in the Tyees ointment as he clouted a homer, triple and single, belted in two runs and scored two.

PLAYOFFS SET

Jokers Suffer Elimination

Foul Bay 9, Jokers 7

Jokers bowed out of Senior B Lacrosse League playoff contention Sunday, but not before giving league champion elect Foul Bay a stiff battle.

Dropping a 9-7 decision to Foul Bay at Stevenson Park, Jokers lost their last hope of qualifying for the post-season playoffs. However, they will still meet Naimo Jets in their last game of the season tonight at Memorial Arena at 8.30.

Foul Bay now meets the Jets in a best-of-five series for the Island championship. First game is at Memorial Arena August 10 with Foul Bay in the role of defending champion.

Jokers kept pace with Foul Bay in the first quarter, splitting six goals with the eventual winners. Foul Bay edged into a 5-4 lead at the half and were still ahead 7-6 at three-quarter time.

TWO-GOAL DEBUT

Jack Sim, playing his first lacrosse game, sniped a pair of goals for Foul Bay as did Art Green and Tom Halbert. Elmer Matthews, Jack Reid and George Rerick added single goals to the winners' total.

For Jokers, Wilf Scott, Vic Gallop and Al Horne scored two goals each while Cliff Scroggie got the other counter.

The teams played seven-man lacrosse for the first time this season and the B.C. Lacrosse Association has ruled that all playoff games will be under seven-man rules.

The Champ and His Inspiration

This happy scene was enacted after William H. Jones, Vancouver, had beaten some of the province's best marksmen to win the City of Victoria trap championship in the week-end program of clay-pigeon shooting at the Victoria Gun Club's Albert Head Road grounds. He won a shootoff with three other marksmen with a 25-straight record. The proud lady is Jones' wife.

Sox No Longer Glitter; Braves-Dodgers Clash

PCL FREE-FOR-ALL BRINGS RIOT SQUAD

The Hollywood Stars and the Los Angeles Angels made the news in Sunday's Pacific Coast League games.

A riot between the teams in the first game resulted in a squad of 50 policemen being rushed to the park to keep order in the finale.

The lid blew off when Joe Hatten of Los Angeles hit Frank Kelleher with a pitch in the sixth. Kelleher stormed to the mound and belted Lefty Joe. Ted Beard went into run for Kelleher, who was evicted, and got into a beef with Murray Franklin at third.

Both clubs tore into each other. After a session of spike wounds and punches, Beard and Franklin also left. Incidentally Hollywood won the opener 4-1, while the Angels won the nightcap 3-3.

Golf Brass Cringes; McElroy Takes Title

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Walt McElroy of Vancouver, former Canadian amateur golf titleholder, turned on the heat here Sunday to retain his Ogopogo Open championship.

McElroy fired a record-breaking 67 on the final 18 holes to go with his 71 Saturday and a 138 total. Runner-up was Vancouver's Bob Kidd with a two-day total of 142.

McElroy set the course record of 68 last year when he captured the Ogopogo Open trophy. The first time it was put up.

The slim stylist is currently the centre of hot controversy in Vancouver where B.C. Amateur Golf Association officials named him as only an alternate on the Willingdon Cup team.

McElroy has indicated he will not take part on that basis in the inter-provincial matches played in conjunction with the Canadian Amateur Championships.

Last week the Boston Red Sox were surging, and starting to talk pennant.

Sunday night they sat stunned by four straight losses to Detroit Tigers, a team which has kicked around in the American League cellar most of the season.

The Tigers made a clean sweep of their four-game series with the Sox at Boston, winning both ends of a Sunday doubleheader. They rallied to cap the nightcap 9-6 after right-hander Ned Garver bested Boston 2-1 in the opener.

The skidding Sox now have lost eight straight since their successful road trip when they climbed to third place. Now they're 4½ games back of Cleveland Indians, who recaptured the third spot.

The Indians took both games of Sunday's doubleheader at Philadelphia against the Athletics 10-1 and 7-1.

The second-place Chicago White Sox lost a tight shutout to Washington 1-0 in a single game. They remained five games behind New York Yankees, whose doubleheader with St. Louis Browns was rained out.

BRAVES MEET DODGERS

In the National League, Milwaukee Braves trimmed Brooklyn's league-leading margin to 7½ games to set the stage for a Braves-Dodgers series opening at Milwaukee today.

Joe Adcock blasted a 3-2 pitch by reliever Karl Drews into the bleachers with two on in the eighth to win the second game over Philadelphia Phillies 4-1. The Phils took the opener 4-1.

St. Louis Cardinals, beaten six straight times by Brooklyn, drubbed the Dodgers 10-1 as a result of continuous bickering and heckling by the Cleaners.

In the afternoon game Pages had knocked off Eagles, 11-7, behind the pitching of Art Green.

However, Eagles maintained their grip on second place by coming back Sunday with a 13-6 victory over last-place Central Cartage.

Veteran curve-ball artist Stan Davies gave Eagles their victory Sunday, scattering eight hits effectively and walking five.

The losers put three of their hits together in the first inning for a 2-0 lead that evaporated in the bottom half of the inning when two errors and two walks by Central Cartage starter Lionel Smith gave Eagles two runs.

Ron Karadimas stole home with Eagles' third run in the third inning but Dave Wakelyn put Central Cartage back in the game in the fourth, doubling, going to third on an outfield fly and scoring on a double steal.

Eagles blew the game wide open in the fourth when they sent 12 batters to the plate.

BUDGE PATTY WINS

HAMBURG (AP)—American Budge Patty won the international German tennis championship Sunday beating Italian Fausto Gardini 6-3, 6-2, 6-3.

Bill Johnston Captures Provincial Skeet Title

Strong Finish Gives Local Marksman Crown

By ROY THORSEN

A young Victoria sportsman, not yet 25 years of age, was crowned 1953 skeet-shooting champion of British Columbia Sunday.

He is William L. "Bill" Johnston, who won the coveted award at the Albert Head Road grounds of the Victoria Gun Club. Johnston's triumph came in the feature attraction of a two-day program.

On Saturday the schedule was occupied by the Victoria city trap championships won by William R. Jones of Vancouver.

For his ability Johnston now holds the E. W. Hamber perpetual trophy.

It was the main award he captured in scoring a 97x100 in the 100-bird all-bore championship event. And it was a hard-won victory.

Several previous shooters in the championship division blasted 49 of 50, the field gradually narrowing to four scoring 96x100.

Then Young Bill went to the posts with a 49x50 for his first effort. He started out well, but during the initial 25-bird shoot dropped two. But, however, he finished as a true champion with 25 straight and a total of 97.

Barclay Top Seed In B.C. Net Tournery

Late entries and some withdrawals Sunday completely changed the complexion of the men's singles event in the B.C. Lawn Tennis championships which open today at the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club.

Drawing first seeding in the 56th renewal of the annual provincial championships will be nationally ranked Lawrence Barclay from Vancouver. Fresh from Davis Cup competition in Eastern Canada, Barclay wired his entry Sunday just before the deadline.

Jim Livingstone, well-known San Franciscan and primarily a doubles player, withdrew from the singles event, leaving second seeding to carrot-topped Art Jeffrey, also from Vancouver.

Third seeding went to rangy Jim Demas of Sacramento, while Stan Hack of the same city will go into the draw as fourth seed. Hack is the son of the famous Chicago Cubs third baseman of some years back.

Victoria city champion Ted Smythe is rated a good chance to offer some tough competition to seeded players in the lower half of the draw. Former city champ Warren Cameron is sidelined with a shoulder injury and will not appear in the championship.

Livingstone and Demas look like the team to beat in the men's doubles. However, looming on the horizon as a real threat to their supremacy will be the tough second seeded Canadian pair of Barclay and Jeffrey. Third seeded doubles pair is Hack and Horace "Bunny" Gillett, the latter hailing from Los Angeles. Last of the seeded spots went to city champions Smythe and Jack Butt.

Janet Hopps, popular Seattle player, will be first seeded in the ladies' singles, while second favored will be Barbara Lum of Portland. Elizabeth Loeck, Mill Valley, who gave a good account of herself in Victoria last year, will be third seeded. Lois Reid of Vancouver will be fourth.

Play continues throughout the week with finals on Saturday.

Draw follows:

5.30—K. Karas vs. D. McCormick, D. Codrington vs. L. Finney, F. Millman vs. M. Mitchell, R. Louis vs. K. Taylor, R. K. Lock vs. Miss I. Hill, Miss L. Reid vs. Miss T. Finney, G. Corbett vs. P. Taylor, R. Jackson vs. H. Gillett.

Bays Hold 2-Game Lead

Terry Campbell pitched a neat four-hitter Saturday, striking out seven, as he led James Bay to an 8-3 victory over Sidney in the second game of the best-of-five final for the lower island juvenile boys' baseball crown.

Victory gave James Bay a 2-0 lead in games. Third game of the series is slated for Thursday night at Macdonald Park.

Liberal Fight Defensive Tory Woman Leader Claims

Liberal cabinet ministers' speeches are showing that the party is strictly on the defensive in the federal election campaign, it was claimed on the week-end.

Miss Hilda Hesson, national director of women for the Progressive Conservative party, was speaking at a meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Browne, Transit Road.

She was here to support James George, Victoria Tory candidate.

"The Liberals are devoting their campaign speeches to criticism of the Conservative manifesto rather than developing any plans that they may have for government in the future," Miss Hesson said.

She said a Social Credit MP from Victoria would have little or no influence in the House of Commons, "but would be placed in much the same position as the innumerable Liberal backbenchers whose voices had seldom been heard in the last four years."

Mr. George told the gathering:

"Not one penny will be taken from old age pensions, family allowances, war veterans' allowances or any other social security payments because of tax cuts."

He said the $500,000,000 the Conservatives can save for the taxpayers will be the result of efficient operation of all government departments, including a complete reorganization of the department of national defense. The Conservatives, he added, would not take more money from the people than was required to carry on the essential business of the government.

WOODSTOCK, Conn. (UP) — Civic-minded residents have acted to preserve one of the nation's oldest one-room brick schoolhouses. It was built in 1748 and kept in continuous operation for 195 years.

Pearkes Deplores High Cost of Defense

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, Progressive Conservative candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich Saturday night attacked reasons given by Liberals for high defense expenditures.

The Liberals, the general noted, claimed part of the expense was due to unprecedented expansion required following the Korean war.

Reason for this expansion, General Pearkes claimed, was that the Liberals had let Canada's defense forces fall far below any reasonable standard.

"Experienced administrative personnel were demobilized; senior warrant and non-commissioned officers, whose knowledge of peacetime routine would have been invaluable, were let out on scanty pensions. Camps were demolished or left to be looted and tons of equipment were sold at bargain prices only to be repurchased a few months later at full market value," he said.

"The extent of the expansion was necessitated by the neglect of the armed forces in the years immediately prior to Korea," the general said.

He said Progressive Conservatives would eliminate waste and extravagance from defense expenditures and would provide a more efficient defense organization. R. L. Hewitt, won the election. He stressed that strength of combat units and pay of regatta.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

One of the drawbacks to being The Old Man, is, whenever the family has questions to ask, The Old Man is supposed to know all the answers.

All members of the Husbands' & Fathers' Protective Guild are used to questions ranging from "What makes the wheels go round, daddy?" to "Why CAN'T I have the car tonight, father?" and "Did you remember to pick up the cleaning, dear?"

In most cases, The Old Man can dream up some sort of answer, and bluff his way through it.

But there comes a time when The Old Man is licked, and he might as well admit it.

This occurred Sunday when My Favorite Wife, idly turning the pages of The Times, came to a reproduction of a picture (?) now hanging in the Art Centre of Greater Victoria, 1040 Moss Street.

(I print the address so you can see this exhibit yourself if you don't believe me. To give you an idea of what is in store, a small portion of this picture (?) is alongside).

To get back to My Favorite Wife, when she came across the reproduction, the following conversation took place:

My Favorite Wife: What is Art?
Me: Art who?
MF: Art, like in painting.
Me: Systematic application of knowledge or skill in affecting a desired result, especially in the production of the beautiful by imitation or design.

MF: (Thrusting newspaper under my nose): Then what is THIS?
Me: Don't change the subject.
MF: I'm not. It says right here this is art. Colin Graham says it loud and clear.
Me: Well, if Colin Graham says it's art, I guess it's art.

MF: Just like a man—always agreeing with other men. Well, then, if it's art, what does it MEAN?
Me: (Looking at the caption under the illustration): Why, it is "Three Figures on Madder and Sienna."
MF: But I don't see Sienna beauty in it.
Me: It doesn't really Madder whether you do or not.
MF: You are a husband, you are supposed to explain things, explain to me what even one part of this picture (???) means.

Me: (Intently studying the detail reproduced herewith): This is obviously Chief Matthias Joe trying on a halo in case he decides to run as a candidate in the election.
MF: You are so wrong. Any fool can plainly see it is a Victoria woman refusing to wear the new dresses with high hemlines and low waistlines.

Me: Let's try it upside down—there, that's better. Now you can see it is nothing but an owl diving from a small cactus plant into a desert oasis, which later turns out to be a mirage.

MF: (Suspiciously). Are you sure the dog Punch hasn't visited the Art Centre lately, and walked over the canvas after spilling paint on his paws?
Me: I'm positive. It says right here, this picture (???) was painted by Margaret Peterson.
MF: MARGARET Peterson? A woman?
Me: Yup.
MF: Lovely painting, isn't it? Women are so clever.

NB: So you think this column doesn't make sense? Go see that picture (???)

KNOW YOUR CANDIDATES

George Follows Path His Forebears Trod

This is the third of a series intended to introduce the six Victoria candidates in the federal election to readers of the Times. The candidates will be introduced in alphabetical order. Today's subject is James George, Progressive Conservative.

BY MONTE ROBERTS

James George, a wiry, restless man of 44 with a quick tongue, agile mind and prematurely grey hair, would likely be type-cast by Hollywood as the assistant district attorney.

He speaks rapidly, sometimes vehemently; he marshals facts to back his argument; and he is apt to fix even the most innocent visitor with a piercing gaze from behind heavy-rimmed glasses.

Actually, his closest connection with law is that his father was the late Arthur D. George,

KC, a prominent barrister in Bruce County, Ontario. James George, to date, has had four main professions: surveyor, government engineer, soldier and investment counselor.

He has also, when times were tough, earned his coffee-and-doughnuts by other methods ranging from picking oranges to scrubbing floors.

There is nothing in his background to indicate he would make an expert door-to-door salesman, yet much of his time these days is taken up with that activity.

During his campaign as Progressive Conservative candidate, he is "pushing doorbells" at the rate of 500 a week. Before his first calls, he was drenched in nervous perspiration; now about 2,000 calls later, he operates as smoothly as the Fuller brush man.

Commerce, Finance University Specialties

It is possible he might have followed his father into the law, but at about the time he finished university (Toronto and Western Ontario), majoring in commerce and finance, his father died, leaving him on his own, financially.

He had just finished a short course with the Army Service Corps in Winnipeg, and the idea of army life appealed to him—but not the $90 a month which was the stipend for a second lieutenant then.

So he headed for Northern Ontario and survey work. In 1939, he moved to British Columbia and when war broke out, was working on a pre-Alaska Highway survey in the Findlay River area.

James George was then 30, with considerable basic training, so he took it for granted he'd be accepted at the first recruiting centre he tried.

But he was refused in Victoria, Vancouver and points east, before finally catching on with the 79th Battalion, R.C.A., at Red Deer, Alta., in October, 1939. At this stage of the war, men were offering themselves faster than the army could absorb them.

He was on active service for five and a half years, going overseas in January of 1940. Mr. George, with the rank of captain, took his discharge in Victoria.

His first postwar job as acting resident engineer for the provincial department of public works, at Ymir, south of Nelson, B.C., although he maintained his home and headquarters in Victoria.

Engineering First Post-War Occupation

In 1939, Mr. George was to his wife, he acquired two sons—Tony, 12, and Ian, 11. Last February a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. George.

The family home is at 1009 Falkland Road, but James George isn't there very often these days—he's out pushing doorbells.

IWA Threatens Strike to Force All Employers to Toe Wage Mark

The IWA has threatened strike action against 33 companies which so far have refused to accept a conciliation board's recommendation that B.C. woodworkers be given a 14-cent-an-hour wage increase.

A meeting was scheduled for Vancouver today at which representatives of 114 other companies, who have agreed to the terms, would affix signatures to an interim work contract.

It was suggested here that some of the 33 firms which have so far said no to the conciliation board terms might fall into line before the day's end and sign as well.

The union here has served notice it would make application Tuesday to the Labor Relations Board for strike votes in all operations refusing to meet the new contract terms.

Seven of the 33 unwilling companies are in Victoria and surrounding district and employ some 300 men. The 33, holdout companies, described as marginal operators, employ altogether about 1,750 men.

Seven of the 33 unwilling companies are in Victoria and surrounding district and employ some 300 men. The 33, holdout companies, described as marginal operators, employ altogether about 1,750 men.

The 114 operators accepting the award employ approximately 27,000. They announced their acceptance last Wednesday through Forest Industrial Relations Ltd. The IWA earlier announced its acceptance of the award following a full-membership poll.

The pay increase recommended by the conciliation board comes to 14 cents an hour through a straight five-cent increase and incorporation into basic pay of a nine-cent cost-of-living bonus. The raise brings basic pay for woodworkers to $1.49 an hour.

In the summer of 1952 when coast operators presented a solid front in opposing IWA demands, the union went on strike for 45 days.

Spokesmen for some of the smaller operations have said the wage increase proposed for the 1953-54 contract would force them out of business.

Bush and Grass Fires Plague Saanich Crews

Garage Destroyed, Homes Threatened During Frequent Week-End Alarms

A garage was destroyed and homes threatened in one of four bush and grass fires that broke out in Saanich during the week-end.

Firefighters were busy almost continuously for more than 14 hours.

Worst blaze was in bush country in the 1200 block of Burnside Road early Saturday afternoon. Flames gutted a garage owned by Cecil S. Ball, 1240 Burnside, but firemen got it under control before flames reached nearby homes. A trailer and other articles in the garage were destroyed.

"These fires are caused by general public carelessness," Glen Robbins commented.

OFFICIAL LAYS BLAME

He said the fires were being started by people who throw live cigarettes or burning matches out of cars, sparks from incinerators not properly guarded, and people who let rubbish fires get out of hand.

"We know for a fact the blaze last week at Inverness and Quadra was caused by a burning match. A woman saw a man light a cigarette and discard the match in dry grass and bushes. A few minutes later the fire broke out," the deputy chief said.

Other week-end fires were on Spring Road and near Elk and Maitly Lakes.

Straith Urges Red Teaching Charge Probe

Premier Bennett and Education Minister Tilly Rolston should take steps to eradicate the teaching of Communism in B.C. schools which Victoria School MLA Mrs. Lydia Arsens claims exists, former education minister William T. Straith said today.

Mrs. Arsens said at a public meeting Friday that some teachers are speaking Communist lines in the province's schools.

Mr. Straith said Mrs. Arsens' statement has caused "a good deal of stir in the community."

He recalled that during the early years of the Second World War people were conscious of the subversive influence and there were suggestions that Communism was being taught in schools at that time.

Said Mr. Straith: "A thorough investigation was made by the Liberal minister of education at that time and nothing serious was found. No such allegation has been made since then, and up to the time the Liberals went out of power."

ALARMING

"It is alarming to note one of our elected representatives is accusing the Social Credit government of permitting Communism now to be introduced in our schools."

"If it was an outsider making the allegation, one would accept the charge with hesitancy but when an M.L.A. charges her own government with allowing Communism to show itself in our schools, then I think the premier and education minister should view the matter most seriously and see that it is eradicated."

"We ought to see to it that in the formative years our children should not have contact with this alien and poisonous doctrine."

Local Woman Dies After Fire Mishap in Home

Mrs. Eliza Smillie Resuscitated Only to Succumb Two Days Later

Overcome by smoke when fire broke out in her apartment early last Friday morning, Mrs. Eliza Emma Smillie, 86, of 2107 Blanshard, died in Royal Jubilee Hospital Sunday night.

Dr. E. Hart, coroner, reported he was investigating as to whether an inquest should be held.

He said that from his present information, the elderly woman had been smoking and set furnishings on fire.

A Victoria Fire Department resuscitator crew revived Mrs. Smillie. City police took her to hospital.

Mrs. Smillie was born in London, England. She had been a resident of Victoria for 20 years. She is survived by one brother, Walter Findell, Victoria, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Funeral arrangements are in charge of McCall Bros.

Esquimalt-City Union Sought By Councillor

Sammon Will Ask Chamber Support

A strong move for amalgamation of Esquimalt with the city is starting.

Councillor G. K. Sammon of the western municipality told The Times today he will ask the assistance of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce in promoting the union.

He said he also will "talk up the matter" with the Esquimalt Ratepayers' Association.

Councillor Sammon, who is serving his first year in municipal office, says the main reason he will promote the union is because of the need for interesting more highly qualified men in council positions.

"Esquimalt would be vastly better off being served by centralized police and fire services," he said. "But the main benefit would be having a wider selection of possible councillors."

SURE OF SUPPORT

"My action is the result of unbiased observation during the months I have served on the council. I feel sure I will get council support when all the facts are known," he stated.

A laboratory technician and bacteriologist, Mr. Sammon heads the municipal public health committee.

"We are already amalgamated in principle with Victoria on board of health and school matters," he said.

PUBLIC MUST DECIDE

Mr. Sammon thought the question of amalgamation can only be decided finally by a public referendum. He favors such action, "as soon as possible" and will work toward educating Esquimalt ratepayers on "need and benefits."

"The Victoria Chamber of Commerce has said it would be willing to take the lead and I will tackle that group first," he promised.

"If we can get Esquimalt joined with the city, the other municipalities will come in eventually," he believes.

Mrs. J. F. Sallaway Dies in California

Mrs. J. F. Sallaway, widow of a well-known Victoria school teacher, died in Santa Barbara, Calif., Saturday night. She was 92.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Where is Mount Cook?
—D.M.T.

A.—It is in the panhandle of Alaska, between Yakutat Bay and the southwest corner of the Yukon. Its altitude is 13,760 feet. The height of Mount Logan, in the Yukon, northwest of Cook, is 19,850 feet.

Q.—Will you please tell us where all the wind is coming from? That's all you hear everyone asking.—B.R.

A.—As it is part of a world picture, there appears to be nothing. Victorians can do about it. Meteorologists tell us of a great area of high pressure that hangs over the eastern Pacific. This causes a flow from the northwest down the west coast of Vancouver Island. It comes into Juan de Fuca Strait, which acts like a funnel. As the air comes through strait the strength of the wind increases, and as Victoria is at the small end, or outlet of the funnel, citizens here feel the wind at its maximum strength.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The Extra Hair Piece,
A Glamorous Beauty Aid

Today and tomorrow I am going to let you in on two special glamor aids for hair styling which will give you the advantage of... First is the extra hair piece.

When interviewing Pauline Schlesinger in The Fischer Salon not long ago, who should be there but Marcia Neil (Paterson). You have heard her sing many times on television's most outstanding shows and have heard her on radio. Talented Marcia is also a songwriter, pianist, and runs a home. She has three children, the youngest only seven months old.

You can imagine why she finds the extra hair piece a life-saver, because she must have a glamorous hairdo which is quickly arrived at. However there are many career women and busy women in homes who must also look their best without spending a lot of time doing so.

To go back to Pauline Schlesinger, she is the daughter of M. M. Fischer who died a few years ago. Pauline is certainly not like the baldheaded man who sells hair tonic. She herself always wears a hair piece and changes her hair style about once a week. Her current favorite is The Coronet Braid. The hair is swept back from the face and the braid is placed back a bit and around the head. Ribbon is woven in with the hair. This is extremely lovely and also cool for summer.

Extra hair pieces can be used in many ways, as a bun, a topknot, or in many other styles. This is one of the things which is fun about extra hair pieces. You can change your hair styling if you decide you do not like it.

Extra hair is not expensive when you consider the fact that it lasts a lifetime. These pieces

During warm weather the family seems to go for cold prepared cereals at breakfast time. Add extra flavor and nutrition by topping their favorite choice with tender cooked prunes. Pour a little of the prune cooking liquid over the cereal, too. Its sweet fruity flavor makes the addition of sugar unnecessary.

Interesting reading for the homemaker are the information labels on clothes which tell the fabric content, and whether they should be washed or dry-cleaned. Good clothes can be ruined by improper cleaning.

Gladioli Form Setting
For Amas-Day Wedding

Baskets of white and pastel gladioli decorated St. Alban's Church, Saturday evening, for the wedding of Dorothy Mae Amas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Amas, 1497 Myrtle Street, and PO Robert Ralph Day, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Day, 1506 Ryan Street. Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh heard the vows and Arthur Stringer sang "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register. Organist was Walter Hamilton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional white gown of lace, net and satin. A nylon net overskirt with inserts of lace was worn over white satin. The lace bodice was trimmed with pearls and the sleeves were lily point. A full-length veil misted from her pearl coronet and she carried a crescent bouquet of deep red roses and white sweet peas.

Maid of honor was Mrs. Leslie Middleton, who wore a strapless gown of satin with net overskirt. Her lace bolero matched her lace mitts and she carried a bouquet of pink gladioli and carnations.

Miss Elizabeth Keirs was bridesmaid in a gown of green, styled similarly to that of the matron of honor. She carried a bouquet of mauve gladioli and pink carnations. Little Marilyn and Linda Secret were flower girls wearing gowns of yellow taffeta with blue bows of artificial flowers. They carried bouquets of mauve and yellow gladioli. Best man was Delbert Mayhew and ushers were brothers-in-law of the groom, CPO Harold Stevens and Alan West.

Lougheed's Banquet Hall was scene of the reception, where a three-tiered wedding cake centred the lace-covered bridal table. Snapdragons and sweet peas formed the floral arrangements. Several selections were sung by Arthur Stringer, and toast to the bride was proposed by Henry Leinweber. Telegrams were received from Nelson, B.C. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Fred Day, Miss Gladys Day, Miss Florence Biggs and Miss Gladys Harford, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Day, Chetumal; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. McPhee, Lake Cowichan; and Mr. and Mrs. W. Kew, Duncan.

For traveling to Nelson and other parts of the interior on honeymoon, Mrs. Day chose a suit of turquoise blue gabardine with white accessories and gardenia corsage. She wore the groom's gift, a set of rhinestone necklace and earrings. The couple will live in Victoria.

'Little Boy' Look
This year there is a greater selection of typical male fashions adapted, tongue in cheek, for the college girls. Jackets, sweaters and shirts top the list, according to Women's Wear Daily. But instead of doing these in conservative Brooks Bros. colors, they are best in bright and exaggerated fabrics. There are big bright prints for shirts, yellow felt, black and white brocade, bright cotton tweeds, printed corduroys for jackets and vests. Shirts follow two paths—the new washable wool jerseys offer some real competition to sweater fashions when styled as classic shirt-like necklines; new scooped-to-the-back necklines; stand-away cuffed necklines that can be filled in with scarfs.

Gorge Presbyterian Church Scene of Saturday Wedding

Standard baskets filled with blue hydrangeas, white gladioli and Easter Reed daisies decorated Gorge Presbyterian Church Saturday afternoon for the wedding of Ada Amelia Rose Burt and James Lothian Bone.

Rev. T. H. McAllister performed the ceremony for the daughter of Mrs. W. Burt, 169 Burnside Road West, and the late Mr. Burt, and the son of Mrs. E. Bone, 132 Regina Avenue and the late Mr. Bone.

As the bride entered the church the organist played "A Voice That Breathed O'er Eden" and during signing of the register "O Perfect Love."

Queen's blue lace over white tulle was chosen for the afternoon-length wedding gown, styled with Elizabethan collar, sweetheart neckline, full skirt and with rhinestone buttons extending from neck to waistline. A navy and white hat with complementing flowers over the ears and navy veil and navy accessories completed the ensemble.

The bride carried her father's bible topped with rapture roses and Stephanotis. Her only jewelry was her mother's sapphire and pearl lavalier.

Mrs. Jacqueline Duncan, Vancouver, a cousin of the bride, was matron of honor in a red-tinge gown of iridescent blue taffeta and pastel yellow sheer, and carrying a Colonial bouquet of yellow gladioli. George Bone stood with his brother as best man.

Fighting Services Vote Today; Leaders Launch Final Drives

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS
Some Canadians voted today in the Aug. 10 federal election though the campaign still has a week to run.

About 105,000 servicemen and women in Canada, Europe and the Far East, are eligible to cast ballots and many of them did. Their votes, to be taken all week, won't be counted until Aug. 17.

Meanwhile, the political leaders, after a comparatively restful week-end, launched their final, and perhaps most telling, vote-seeking drives.

Prime Minister St. Laurent and George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, stuck to Quebec and Ontario which will have 75 and 85 seats, respectively, in the next 265-member Commons. Mr. St. Laurent visits Magog, Granby, St. Hyacinthe and St. John's, Que., today while Mr. Drew speaks at Manotick and Kinburn, Ont., in his home riding of Carleton.

Mr. Drew completed a week-long swing through Ontario, Saturday, with nine speeches and visits to 12 communities.

At Owen Sound, where he wound up his 16-hour working day, Mr. Drew accused the Liberal government of "dictatorship" and said: "Never since Charles I lost his head more than 300 years ago has there been a more callous defiance of parliament."

"HORSES WERE THERE"

Mr. Drew referred to an order-in-council passed under the government's emergency powers legislation which bars Canadian ships from trading with China. The order was passed in April while parliament was in session.

At Port Arthur, Mr. Drew disputed Mr. St. Laurent's claim that the opposition leaders knew it had been denied there were horses on the payroll at Camp Petawawa and yet kept repeating it. "Horses were on the payroll and he (the prime minister) knows it because he said so himself."

Mr. St. Laurent spent a quiet Saturday at his birthplace, Compton, Que., and took up the political cudgels again Sunday night at Sherbrooke, Que.

He said before an audience of 3,000 that while there were some "sinners" in the armed forces, the incidence of crime among the military was far less than that of a city of 200,000, the number of servicemen, $105,000, plus their families.

FEW THOUSAND ONLY

The Prime Minister said that even with the crimes uncovered in the armed forces and extra purchases of such things as teapots, forks and neckties, only a few thousand dollars could be involved.

At Kentville, N.S., George Nowlan, president of the National Conservative Association, said mailing lists of the armed forces were denied opposition parties until after nomination day, a week ago today. But Liberal campaign pamphlets had turned up in Hawaii last week en route to Canadian servicemen in Korea.

At Souris, Man., Trade Minister Howe said he deplores opposition warnings of economic disaster. If enough people started believing them, there would be depression.

MAYHEW GIVES WARNING

Demagogue Tongues Could Shatter Peace

By GORDON FORBES
Political conferences on the future of South Korea will have a better chance for success "if some people who are accustomed to saying a lot keep quiet," Robert W. Mayhew, Canada's ambassador to Japan, said today on his return to Victoria.
"I see real hope in the future, but this is not the day to listen to the demagogues," said Mr. Mayhew, who a week ago today was at the Korean front with Canadian troops.
He considered the next 30 days the crucial period in the post-Korean war period.
The political conferences must be allowed to work unhindered by unnecessary statements from cynics who don't know what they're talking about, he said.
He was referring to those persons who look upon the Reds to gain time for more aggression elsewhere.

U.S. Leaders Attend Taft Memorial Rites

WASHINGTON (UP)—The nation's great and mighty gathered for a final tribute to Sen. Robert Taft today in the majestic rotunda of the capitol.
President Eisenhower, members of the cabinet and supreme court, senators and representatives of both parties, diplomats from every part of the world, and grieving friends such as Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Gov. J. Lausche of Ohio were among the 900 invited dignitaries.
The memorial service, held at noon, was the highest honor the republic can pay its dead. It came after Taft's body had lain in state for nearly 24 hours in the huge circular hall beneath the capitol dome.
Sunday 40,000 plain citizens braved 90-degree heat to climb the capitol's tall front steps and file in awed silence past the closed bronze casket.
Last rites will be held at 11 a.m. Tuesday at the Indian Hill Episcopal Church in Taft's home town of Cincinnati. Burial will follow in the church cemetery, near Taft's home.

YEGGS GET $15,000 FROM MAINLAND HOTEL

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—Safe-crackers escaped with $15,000 early today from the Woods Hotel in nearby Mallardville.
Police said the thieves used an overcharge of explosives which almost wrecked the interior of the hotel.
"It was a wonder they didn't kill themselves," said a police investigator.

PW Exchange Starts Tuesday

99,763 Prisoners Look for Release as Plans Completed

MUNSAN (AP)—"Operation Big Switch," the exchange of some 87,000 Allied and Communist prisoners of the Korean war, is expected to start at 9 a.m. Wednesday (5 p.m. Tuesday, PDT), when the first POWs arrive at the Panmunjom exchange point.

The Reds said they will deliver 12,763 Allied captives in groups of 100 an hour for four hours daily. At the same time, the UN command plans to hand back 74,000 North Korean and Chinese prisoners at the daily rate of 2,400 able bodied and 360 sick and wounded.

As the Allied POWs file through "Freedom Gate" at Panmunjom they will be whisked by truck, or, if they are sick or wounded, by helicopter to one of three camps near Munsan, 15 miles to the south.

South Korean POWs will go to "Liberty Village," a city of tents; British Commonwealth prisoners to "Camp Britannica," and American and other UN liberated POWs to "Freedom Village," a long building operated by the U.S. Marines.

LONDON (UP)—British officials said today that United States Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has calmed British fears of an impatient American "walkout" at the Korean political conference.

They welcomed Dulles' assurances that the United States will consult its Allies before adopting a final "line" on Korea.

The American secretary of state was the target of bitter political and press attacks in Britain and West Europe last week because of an implied threat to walk out of the conference unless it proceeded in accordance with American desires.

The British press, loudly hostile to Dulles' statement about a possible walk-out last week, gave prominent attention today to his statement, made before leaving for Korea, that America would fully consult her Allies.

Trainmen Will Demand Protection From Douks

CPR Workers Blame Bennett, Bonner for Not Keeping Promises; Meeting Slated Tonight

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Trainmen on the Canadian Pacific Railway's twisting Kettle Valley line will meet here tonight to discuss protection from Doukhobor track bombings and fires.

"We mean business," said W. H. Towhey, chairman of the Nelson local of the brotherhood of railway trainmen.

"We'll take the bull by the horns," he added.
"Anything can happen here with the Sons about. The CPR has given us every protection it can, but Attorney-General Bonner and Premier Bennett have fallen down on their election promises."

The demand for protection came from the trainmen after 10 homes in the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor settlement of Krestova were burned in early morning fires Friday.

The Krestova fires were followed by a blaze, believed to be of incendiary origin, which damaged a wooden railway trestle near Oliver, B.C., Sunday. Speculation is that the blaze may have been the work of fanatical Sons. Bottles, believed to have contained an inflammable liquid, are reported to have been found beneath the trestle.

Towhey said the railway brotherhood would not take strike action.
"There are other ways and means within our contract," he said. "Remember, we tied up the line for two days once before because of the attacks."

Premier Bennett said at his Kelowna home that he would leave the matter of protection in the Kootenays "to Attorney-General Bonner and the police."

Hundreds of Doukhobors—both Sons of Freedom and Orthodox—marked the death of their leader, Peter The Lordly Verigin, in a day-long religious celebration Sunday.

"They chanted and prayed at Verigin's tomb at Brilliant, B.C., 20 miles southwest of here. There were no incidents after fears that the celebrations might ignite a new wave of violence."

FLASHES TOY GUN

Vancouver Boy Bandit Captured

VANCOUVER (CP)—A young bandit was captured here today after he made an unsuccessful attempt to hold up the main branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada on Granville Street. He was not immediately identified.

He entered a side door of the bank, and flashed a toy gun before Mrs. Barbara Woods, a teller.

"He stuck a gun over the counter," said 30-year-old Mrs. Woods. I screamed and dropped behind the counter. Then I don't remember what happened.

The bandit fled, pursued by three bank employees who captured him after a chase through noon-hour crowds.

Within three minutes, they had him back in the bank as police investigators arrived.

"It was a good imitation of a real gun," said assistant manager C. B. Sinclair.

Most of the employees and customers in the bank were not aware of the holdup until Mrs. Woods screamed.

The Indo-Chinese leader arrived here by plane Sunday for conversations based on France's July 3 offer of greater liberty for the three states of Indo-China, Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

"Before my departure," Bao Dai said, "I undertook to obtain the advice of all political groups and faith in Viet Nam."

REDS RE-ISSUE U.S. FOOD GIFTS

Communist Authorities Use Eisenhower Parcels for Own 'Relief Program'

BERLIN (CP)—Communist East Berlin authorities today started their own "food relief program" for West Berliners, using food parcels confiscated from East Germans who got them in the West zone.

Communist propaganda rockets zoomed into the western sectors, carrying leaflets telling of the project, which also was heralded by the Communist press and radio.

Two tents were set up 100 yards from the border, with piles of canned goods clearly showing their American and West German origin.

"The Communists said the food had been 'voluntarily given up' for distribution among West Berlin's unemployed and pensioners.

The parcels are believed to have been either confiscated at the border or left at East German railroad stations by persons brow-beaten by Communist strong-arm groups.

By noon about 800 West Berliners had answered the call of the rockets, band music and propaganda speeches and accepted some of the food. Hundreds of others watched the process from just inside the western sectors.

Thousands of hungry East Germans swarmed across the border to pick up their parcels at the West's 15 distribution centres despite continued Communist terror and confiscation.

But the number of parcels handed out dropped sharply, only about 20,000 parcels had been handed out by noon.

Piccioni Attempts To Organize New Italian Cabinet

ROME (UP)—Attilio Piccioni, a schoolmaster's son, began today an attempt to build a new Italian government from the wreckage of the fallen administration of ex-Premier Alcide De Gasperi.

Piccioni, 61, a Christian Democrat party organizer virtually unknown outside of Italy, is looked upon as a conservative and was vice-premier in De Gasperi's short-lived eighth cabinet.

Piccioni was expected to win back the support of groups which deserted De Gasperi in the confidence vote last Tuesday.

Piccioni's acceptance of Einaudi's invitation temporarily blocked the move of left-wing groups to push forward.

Mob of 400 Broken Up By Tear Gas; Leaders Held

A three-way conference was under way at Prince Rupert today to map out ways to end riots which Saturday forced police to resort to tear gas and arrest between 15 and 20 of more than 400 rioters.

Mayor Harry Whalen said an immediate meeting has been convened with the RCMP, the Department of Indian Affairs and the city council.

Whalen called the meeting after more than 400 Indians and whites—young and old—stormed down the main street, besieged the city hall and police station, and described the mounties as "gestapo."

Assistant Commissioner Rivett-Carnac of the RCMP here plans to fly to Prince Rupert as soon as possible to discuss the situation.

Inspector R. Bordeleau described the paraders as "drunken trouble-makers" who invited the police to "come out and fight."

(The inspector said there were only 15 constables on hand to meet the paraders. They dispersed the mob after a gas gun week-end, however, damage was caused when the demonstrators threw egg-sized rocks through the city hall and police station windows.

Mayor Whalen leaned out of a second-story city hall window and asked the crowd to disperse and go home quietly. He was greeted by a barrage of stones.

The police marched into the street and tossed tear gas bombs at the crowd. They refused to budge. A newly-arrived gas gun was then turned on the mob and its members dispersed with stinging, tear-filled eyes.

Sit in Beer Parlors All Night

VANCOUVER (CP)—Chief Andy Paull, president of the North American Indian Brotherhood, today criticized people who blamed Indians and the Indian act revision letting them use beer parlors for the riots at Prince Rupert.

"Every time something happens, these people blame the new act," he said. "This is as foolish as blaming the Doukhobor troubles on the Indian act."

White people were in the majority in the disturbances, he said. "Critics should wait until the people arrested appear in court, and the real reason for the disturbance is judged there."

He went on: "Indians have had reason to protest against the way police have waited at beer parlor doors as Indians came out. That would be enough to cause a disturbance."

"When the privileges and rights of the individual are encroached upon, even an Indian can be expected to rise up and object."

Quebec Youth Held For Gaspe Slaying

NEW RICHMOND, Que. (BUP)—Tracy Boudreau, 19, was scheduled to be arraigned today for the $30 slaying of storekeeper Edgar Audet who was bludgeoned to death in the Gaspe Peninsula two weeks ago while police searched for the killers of three Pennsylvania hunters.

Quebec Solicitor-General Antoine Rivard said Boudreau was picked up near New Richmond. Rivard declined to elaborate on the arrest or say what prompted it other than that provincial police had been working around the clock on the case since Audet was slain July 23.

MARGARET A CLIENT

Princess May Wear Dior's Short Skirt

The following dispatch is the first to be written by Margaret Saville in her new capacity as Buckingham Palace correspondent for the United Press. She is regarded as Britain's best-informed court writer. In her long experience she has written 30 books on the Royal Family, including "Elizabeth and Edinburgh," "The Queen Mother" and "The Royal Heritage."

By MARGARET SAVILLE
LONDON (UP)—Princess Margaret was carefully considering today the new "shocking" skirt length decreed by Paris designer Christian Dior.

A decision by the princess to wear the hemline undoubtedly could transform the controversy over the skirt length Dior unveiled last week into a trend that would affect the world of fashion.

But the princess, who insists on being in the forefront of elegance, also is careful in her taste. She is keenly interested in Dior's new dictum that skirts should be raised to an average of 16 inches above the ground. But she has been cautiously reading all the reports of the Dior showing and studying photographs of the new autumn models at Sandringham House in Norfolk where she spent the long holiday week-end.

If she decides the shorter skirt is indeed the latest fashion, she certainly will want to wear it. She was the first woman of the Royal family to appear in public in the longer skirt after Dior introduced the "new look" in 1947.

Moreover, the princess is an admirer of Dior's creations and a client of his. He specially designed the ivory chiffon ball gown that so enhanced her beauty at functions on her 21st birthday. She bought another evening frock and perfume from his salon when she visited Paris in October, 1951.

Soon the princess must order all her own new clothes for the autumn and winter seasons, so her study of Dior's design at Sandringham assumes added significance.

RCMP Break Up Mob With Gas

Between 15 and 20 Arrested After 400 Persons Threaten Authorities

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP)—Six persons appeared in court here today charged with unlawful assembly following a week-end riot.

They were remanded until Wednesday on bail of $500. A warrant was issued for another man who failed to appear in court.

Two of the accused are Indians, one a man and one a woman.

A three-way conference was under way at Prince Rupert today to map out ways to end riots which Saturday forced police to resort to tear gas and arrest between 15 and 20 of more than 400 rioters.

ONLY 15 POLICE
(The inspector said there were only 15 constables on hand to meet the paraders. They dispersed the mob after a gas gun succeeded where tear gas bombs failed.)

The demonstrations started when the beer parlors closed and the mob decried the RCMP as "gestapo" in what appeared a protest against efforts to tighten up on the city's night life.

Prince Rupert's 10,000 population is swelled by several thousand each week-end when fishermen, woodworkers and miners invade the city for a "bust up."

400 IN MOB
Bordeleau said the police came right out when the mob issued its threat. He said there were more than 400 in the demonstration.

The angry, milling throng paraded down the main street after the beer parlors closed at 11:30 p.m. They chanted, "Let's get the cops." Then the group, including women, headed for the city hall and police station where the three-hour demonstration ended.

Mayor Whalen said the riot, following a similar outbreak the previous Saturday, had been "building up ever since Indians were given permission to enter beer parlors." The Indian Act was revised a year ago to allow Indians to consume beer in licensed premises.

It's a question in Prince Rupert whether 't' close th' beer parlors a little earlier so th' customers won't want 't' riot, or keep 'em open late till they ain't able 't'.
